A dream comes true...

By Veronica Mosgrove

For Virginia and Ruel Gober, the path taken has been one not so typical of those who wind up in the horse business.

"We've been in the oilfield industry since the 1980s," said Ruel Gober. Today, Ruelco Companies out of Harahan is now run by the Gober's daughter, Nicole, employs 70 people and manufactures approximately 100 products.

But in all of their years of working together in the oil business, the one thing Virginia always dreamed of having was a horse. "It could be any kind of horse. I just loved them. I mean, what girl doesn't? Every year, my mother would take me to the rodeo," said Virginia.

When Virginia got a potentially debilitating illness, Ruel says it made him slow down and reflect on things. "I told her, if you make it through this, I'll build you a horse farm." That was three years ago.

"I bought the pasture here in Folsom. It had been neglected. We put the swing up first under a large beautiful tree. Together, we designed the farm around that tree," said Ruel. They now own 90 acres. The sprawling property has a beautiful pond and fountain located in the center with a home and pristine stable surrounding it. A white vinyl fence encloses the pasture where the regal Straight Egyptian Arabians can graze and play.

Next came the horses. "We were so new to this. There was literally an ad in the paper where they put on a seminar on selling horses. That's where we bought our first Arabian," said Virginia. That's where the love affair began.

Makeda was their first purchase. The white mare with her chiseled features is a straight Egyptian Arabian meaning her pedigree can be traced back to her desert lineage. Makeda was a true show horse and is a champion many times over.

"We are hooked on this breed. Dixie Dreamer, my favorite, was our second Arabian. Then came Amirah," said Virginia. "This one horse for a pet has gotten out of hand. I love everything about it," she added.

In all, there are seven Arabians. Three are currently training in Waco, Texas for competition and three are bred for next year. There's also a rescue quarter horse, her filly and two mini horses on the farm. A staff of six plus Virginia and Ruel maintain the farm.

"I was never a horse person, but I enjoy it now. Virginia is truly more hands on than I am. We are just finally in a place in our lives where we can do this," said Ruel.

The couple says they've learned so much about horses -mainly how verbal and affectionate they are and how they all have different personalities," said Virginia.

Makeda is described as the "diva" and Dixie Dreamer is the "boss". "I say Dixie is my favorite because she comes to me when I call her like my pups," chuckles Virginia. My back problems keep me from riding, but I just love their individual personalities. I love grooming them and giving them snacks. I always hug them goodnight," she added.

These days it's also about building a new business, Dreamco, and raising champions. The price for a baby can be pretty expensive coming from champions. Right now, the Gober's have a colt for sale and three more babies due next spring which will also be for sale.

Former Volunteer Firefighter Convicted of Arson

Baton Rouge, La. (August 20, 2014) – A former volunteer firefighter with the Beauregard Parish Broadlands Fire Station, Brandon Lee Harris of Longville, La., has pled guilty to three counts of simple arson.

According to court documents, Harris was sentenced to five years of hard labor for each count. The sentences will run concurrently and with credit for time served, four years could be suspended. Upon release, Harris will be placed on supervised probation for three years.

"It is important that we see these arrests and court cases through to the very end. This individual was supposed to protect the public and instead acted irresponsibly and chose to do something criminal. That's unacceptable in my book," said Agriculture and Forestry Commissioner Mike Strain, D.V.M.

The 36th Judicial District Court further orders Harris to register in the Louisiana Arsonist Registry pursuant to LA. R.S. 15:562.3, pay $12,250 restitution to the victim for damages resulting from the fires and pay additional court and prosecution costs.

Harris was arrested in February 2014 following a month long investigation by the Louisiana Department of Agriculture and Forestry and the Beauregard Parish District Attorney's Office.

According to investigators, Harris admitted to setting wildfires in wooded areas south of DeRidder, La. near Longville, La. in 2012 and 2013 while he was working as a volunteer firefighter. Harris told investigators he set the wildfires to receive payment as a volunteer for fighting the fires and for the excitement of fighting fires.

Coushatta Tribal Member Elliott Nichols participates in Leadership Summit: Native Youth in Agriculture

Elton, La. (Aug. 15, 2014) - The first-ever Native Youth in Agriculture Summit brought together American Indian, Alaska Native and Native Hawaiian young people who will be the next generation of food and agriculture leaders throughout Indian Country. From across the country, a total of 50 students traveled to the University of Arkansas School of Law in Fayetteville, Ark. from July 21-25 to participate in an exciting week of discussion, leadership development, learning and planning. Elliott Nichols, a member of the Coushatta Tribe of Louisiana and a senior at Elton High School, was among those select 50 youth chosen to participate in the summit, which focused on the specialized business and policy issues surrounding Indian Country food and agriculture, and ensuring our next generation has all the tools for success.

"Elliott is a strong young leader for Indian Country's bright future in food and agriculture," said Janie Hipp, Director of the Indigenous Food and Agriculture Initiative at the University of Arkansas. "We are honored and thrilled to continue our work with Elliott and with the Coushatta Tribe to support these new leaders in this very important work."

"We are proud of Elliott for his participation and successful completion of the inaugural program by the University of Arkansas," said Coushatta Tribe Council Member, David Sickey. "Elliott's interest in agribusiness and sciences contributes to the proud history of Native American agriculturalists as original tillers of the land. The Coushatta Tribe sincerely appreciates the University of Arkansas for putting on this Inaugural program for Native youth and we hope to continue to offer our support."

The Summit was hosted by the Indigenous Food and Agriculture Initiative at the University of Arkansas School of Law, the Intertribal Agriculture Council, the National FFA Organization, the Farm Credit Council, and the USDA Risk Management Agency.

Winbourne Elementary school donation

Employees of the Louisiana Department of Agriculture and Forestry adopted Winbourne Elementary in Baton Rouge for the 2014-2015 school year and collected more than 1600 school supply items for the students.

The donation was made Thursday, Aug. 21 to a most appreciative group of youngsters and faculty. The school was selected because employees of the Baton Rouge office felt it was a school that could use the assistance.

When Commissioner Mike Strain and some of the employees made the delivery, a group of about 100 students welcomed them. They were quiet and well behaved.

When Commissioner Strain, who is a veterinarian by profession, asked the kids if anyone had a question, one of the little boys raised his hand and asked if Commissioner Strain had ever worked on a guinea pig. Strain said, "Yes, I have." The little boy responded with, "I hope you worked on him quickly because when guinea pigs get away, they really know how to hide!"

LDAF inspectors ensure the price is right

Baton Rouge, La. (August 12, 2014) – In recent weeks, the Louisiana Department of Agriculture and Forestry (LDAF) has received questions by consumers and business owners regarding electronic price scanners and the reason for annual registration and inspection.

"The Weights and Measures Division of the Louisiana Department of Agriculture and Forestry is charged with the responsibility to verify the accuracy of scanners and electronic pricing systems in all retail stores. It is one more thing we do to protect the consumer," said Commissioner Mike Strain, D.V.M.

The National Conference on Weights and Measures established the Price Verification Working Group in 1993 in response to public concerns about the price accuracy of electronic systems in retail stores. Inspections are performed annually in all retail stores that utilize scanners and other electronic pricing devices in charging their customers for goods and services. The goal of the program is to maintain customer confidence in retail pricing practices and technologies and provide economic benefits for both the consumer and businesses.

"We're just trying to remind consumers and business owners that this is one of the LDAF's regulatory functions. We need to be able to check their equipment to make sure people are getting what they pay for at the price they are supposed to be paying," said Strain.

To pay for this program, Louisiana requires that all scanning devices have an annual registration fee. The amount of the fee varies depending upon on the number of scanners per retail location.

Consumers who believe they may have been overcharged or businesses that need to register their devices should call the Division of Weights and Measures at 225-925-3780.
