"Night with the Stars: Old Fashion Livestock Decorating Contest" is held Friday after all the animals have been judged to give the participants an opportunity to have some light-hearted fun with their animal, one last time before the Jr. Auction on Saturday morning.

SU Ag Center 76th Livestock Show results

For 76 years, the Southern University Ag Center has continued the tradition of providing an opportunity for youth, throughout Louisiana, to gain valuable knowledge and skills at its Annual State Livestock and Poultry Show. The event was held February 28 - March 2, 2019, at the Maurice A. Edmond Livestock Arena.

To qualify for the state show, competitors must have won first place at a parish livestock show.

This year, 120 young people from 31 parishes showed 204 animals in various breeds of dairy and beef cattle, lamb, goat, and poultry.

"My uncle introduced me to raising and showing steers," said Mashayla Dyson, who took home Champion in the Market Steer category. "I have been showing steers since I was 11-years-old and I have really grown to love raising the animals and showing them at Southern's Livestock Show," added the 18-year-old Tangipahoa Parish native. "I hope I'm able to continue doing this," she said with a smile.

The Ag Center also holds a "Night with the Stars: Old Fashion Livestock Decorating Contest" during its Livestock Show.

This event is held Friday after all the animals have been judged to give the participants an opportunity to have fun with their animal, one last time before the Jr. Auction on Saturday morning.

The 'Night with the Stars' winners are:

Wyatt Sonnier, from Jefferson Davis Parish, in 1st place; Brady Hayes from Allen Parish, in second place and

Assumption Parish man arrested for cypress theft

Baton Rouge, LA (March 15, 2019) – An Assumption Parish man has been arrested for trespassing and harvesting standing cypress timber on land owned by the state of Louisiana.

On February 14, 2019, Louisiana Department of Agriculture and Forestry (LDAF) enforcement agents received a complaint of an individual identified as Scott P. Breaux cutting down cypress trees off of land owned by the state of Louisiana near Grand Bayou in Assumption Parish.

LDAF enforcement agents went to the suspected site which was accessible only by boat. They observed a houseboat moored to state property along with a homemade timber sawmill and a shed type structure on the bank of this land. Several signs in the area indicate that the land belongs to the state of Louisiana. Enforcement agents also observed stumps of cypress trees in the area as well as milled cypress cut lumber.

A joint investigation between the LDAF and the Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries (LDWF) resulted in the arrest of Scott Paul Breaux, 47, of Pierre Part, Louisiana.

"Timber theft is a serious crime. Cypress is a long-term crop, part of our indigenous culture and vital to the ecosystem," said Agriculture and Forestry Commissioner Mike Strain, D.V.M.

Breaux was arrested on March 13 and booked into the Assumption Parish Jail on charges of theft of timber and criminal trespass.

If convicted, Breaux faces a maximum sentence of five years in prison, a fine of up to $5000, or both.

Forestry Productivity Program Updates

The Forestry Productivity Program (FPP) provides financial assistance to eligible landowners for establishing and improving a crop of trees. This program helps offset a landowner's expenses by sharing the cost of implementing specific forestry practices designed to produce a crop of timber.

Cost-share payments now cover 75 percent of the total cost of implementing one or more forestry practices, not to exceed a maximum limit set for each individual practice. Eligible landowners can receive up to $15,000 of FPP assistance each fiscal year.

FPP assistance is available to landowners in all Louisiana parishes and will cost-share minimum of ten (10) continuous acres suitable for growing commercially valuable timber species. There is no maximum size of ownership limiting a landowner's participation in the program.

Applications for FPP assistance are accepted year round but are only funded from April 1st to May 31st on a first come, first serve basis.

For more information please call or email the Louisiana Department of Agriculture and Forestry, Office of Forestry, at fpp@ldaf.state.la.us or 225-925-4500.

Timber markets face challenges

By Karol Osborne
LSU AgCenter

(03/18/19) Shreveport, La. — Market opportunities, management practices and tax incentives were among the topics presented at the 34th Ark-La-Tex Forestry Forum held March 12 at the LSU Shreveport University Center.

"It's not what you want to grow or how you want to grow it, but who is going to take it," said LSU AgCenter forest economist Shaun Tanger, addressing about 75 timber landowners and forestry industry representatives.

Timber markets are very specific, Tanger said, and lumber mills have improved their utilization rates to generate more wood per acre.

Bossier Parish timber landowner David Caldwell said he recently sold timber in Bienville Parish that was 85 miles away from the mill, increasing his transportation costs and making it more difficult to find a market for his trees.

"The mills are basically gone or in limited numbers, and they've gone in and revamped a lot of them so they aren't taking large timber," Caldwell said.

"If you want to have any final return, you need to know who in your area is going to take your wood and what kind of wood they take," Tanger said.

Global wood products are trending more to softwoods than hardwoods, and softwood diameters are getting smaller as most mills are looking for tree diameters at 12 to 14 inches, Tanger said.

"Across the southeast, the big pattern is moving more toward growing trees like we do crops — faster, shorter rotations," Tanger said.

Even with a spike in the number of board feet per acre being produced, Tanger said prices in lumber remain high with projected increases in production over the next three to four years.

Greater demand for the few mills in operation that are producing large amounts of lumber may trigger some new mills or at least mill expansions in the state, he said.

Printing and writing paper has taken a dive largely due to technology-driven changes in paper use. However, a massive increase in packaging demand — what Tanger calls the Amazon economy — is expanding U.S. paper and paperboard production.

"Every time you order something, it shows up in a box," he said.

Pine markets are expected to increase in the next three to four years with an increase in production possible in Louisiana, especially in the northwestern part of the state where there is good supply potential.

Louisiana Forestry Association executive director Buck Vandersteen said landowners have done an excellent job of growing trees, producing about 30 percent more than what is harvested each year.

"What we need are more markets to use our materials," he said, adding that as much as 2 million tons of wood is laying idle in south Louisiana due to decreased production.

It is important for timber landowners to have a consulting forester help evaluate purchased property to establish optimal timber tax basis, said Paul Spillers, president of the Louisiana Forestry Association and a Monroe attorney.

Wildlife also was a of interest to the foresters.

"We seem to be losing the battle with feral hogs," said AgCenter animal scientist Glen Gentry, adding that the pigs are responsible for $74 million in losses to crops and property in the state.

"Hunting alone will not solve the problem," he said.

Aerial gunning — sometimes called helicopter hunting — is more effective for feral hog removal than on-ground hunting and trapping, Gentry said.

Toxic chemicals used as bait have proved a less reliable method because there is no feeder on the market that can consistently deliver the toxin, he said, and public health issues regarding the use of warfarin-based toxins has led to a continued ban on their use on feral hogs.

Chronic wasting disease in deer is a concern among timber landowners as more affected animals have been identified in neighboring states, although no cases have been found in Louisiana, said AgCenter wildlife specialist Ashley Long.

"Landowners can help prevent the spread of CWD by minimizing places where susceptible animals congregate, such as feeding stations," Long said.

Long cautioned against the use of commercial urine lures, which pose a threat to healthy animals because companies are not highly regulated and lures cannot be guaranteed to be free of CWD contamination.

Actions related to forestry management can potentially cause environmental issues, said AgCenter irrigation specialist Stacia Conger.

"If you find an area that needs attention, the longer you wait to address these concerns, the more it will cost to correct them," Conger said.

When planning roads and other land improvements, it is important to look at the whole picture and concentrate on mitigation for environmental factors that can negatively affect water quality, Conger said.

"It is important to have a conservation plan in place," said Brian Baiamonte, district conservationist with the Natural Resources Conservation Service. Plans can be fluid and can change over time,

Conservation Technical Assistance is a voluntary program and can be as large or as small as needed based on evaluated alternatives to meet planning goals, he said.

"Now is a good time to contact a consulting forester to develop a management plan for your property," said AgCenter forestry agent Valerie West. "It is one of the best options for helping to maximize your returns."

LDAF now accepting SCBGP applications

The Louisiana Department of Agriculture and Forestry (LDAF) is now accepting applications for the 2019 Specialty Crop Block Grant Program (SCBGP), Commissioner Mike Strain, D.V.M., announced today.

Applications must be received no later than close of business (4:30 p.m.) April 22, 2019.

The LDAF will administer the grant program funded through the United States Department of Agriculture – Agricultural Marketing Service (USDA-AMS). The LDAF anticipates at least $405,000.00 to be allocated to fund Louisiana projects.

The grants are to be used for projects that solely enhance the competitiveness of Louisiana-grown specialty crops like fruits, vegetables, tree nuts, dried fruits and nursery crops including floriculture and horticulture in either domestic or foreign markets.

Applicants must reside in or their organization or educational affiliation must be in Louisiana. All applicants are required to obtain a Data Universal Numbering System (DUNS) number and include that number on their application.

Grant funds will not be awarded for projects that directly benefit a particular commercial product or provide a profit to a single organization, institution or individual. Projects should focus on issues to help improve specialty crop industries as a whole such as: distribution, production, research, market development, food safety, promotion and education. Individual farms are not eligible to apply; however, producer associations, state and/or local organization, state or local governments, qualified educational institutions, non-profits and other specialty crop stakeholders are eligible recipients.

Once the deadline has passed, all applications submitted to the LDAF will be carefully evaluated to determine if the projects are qualified based on the criteria listed in the guidelines. All submitted project applications deemed qualified will be reviewed and scored by a panel consisting of industry stakeholders, and the panel will make funding recommendations to LDAF. All LDAF approved projects will be incorporated into one state grant request, which will be submitted to the USDA.

LDAF has prepared a Request for Applications (RFA) document detailing application instructions, scoring criteria, federal forms, project format examples and other helpful information from the USDA. The document may be found at www.LDAF.la.gov. Click on the 2019 Specialty Crop alert.

A complete list of eligible specialty crops may be found at http://www.ams.usda.gov/AMSv1.0/scbgpdefinitions.
