Serving Up Natural Louisiana Beef!

By Veronica Mosgrove

Beautiful, lush green acres of land abound in the rolling hills of Kingsland Ranch located in West Monroe, Ouachita Parish. Dr. Terry King, a pediatric cardiologist, started in 1978 with 75 acres and has grown Kingsland Ranch to 850 acres.

A native of south Texas, Dr. King grew up on a cattle ranch. He knew it was something he wanted to get back to doing. With son, David, and step-son Jay Yates at his side what started out as a passion has become a growing business. "Right now, it's a smaller operation with about 100 cows and calves. The goal is to have about 300 cows," added David King. "Being local and the superior taste and quality is what sells our beef," said Yates.

"We have raised cattle since 1978 and for the past 10 years we've raised them naturally," said King. Naturally raised beef means we don't use antibiotics or hormones. The easiest way to make sure the cows are naturally raised is to keep our cows on the ranch," said Dr. King. "It gives people peace of mind to know the cattle are well taken care of, to know where it's produced and that it is packaged here in Louisiana." added David King.

The Kingsland Ranch breeds include registered

Black Angus, Red Brangus and Herefords. Quality is of the utmost importance. David King's education in animal husbandry, which is a branch of agriculture concerned with the care and breeding of domestic animals, lends itself to ensuring the highest quality products. He uses an ultrasound device to test for inter-muscular fat (IMF) which is important to determine the marbling of the beef, which in-turn helps determine the quality of the product.

The pasture raised, grass-grain fed beef also features the "Flavor" label, which indicates Louisiana raised choice or higher beef. "Flavor" was started by a community of dedicated cattle growers, including Kingsland Ranch, who promote the production, distribution and consumption of Louisiana beef. The goal is to provide locally-raised, high quality, nutritious beef.

Kingsland Ranch, utilizes several varieties of grass including Alicia, Russell Bermuda, Common Bermuda, and Bahia as well as selectively using natural grain, like corn and oats. You can learn more about Kingsland Ranch beef by visiting <https://www.facebook.com/#!/KingslandRanch> or by visiting the West Monroe Farmers Market.

Louisiana Agriculture & Forestry Today

Louisiana Century Farm Program seeking applicants

Baton Rouge, LA (August 8, 2014) – The Louisiana Century Farm Program is preparing to recognize and honor Louisiana’s farmers, ranchers and forestry landowners who have owned family farm land for 100 years or more.

“This is an opportunity to have your family farm recognized for the many years it has contributed to the agricultural industry in the state of Louisiana,” said Louisiana Department of Agriculture and Forestry Commissioner Mike Strain, D.V.M.

To be eligible for the program, one must be able to answer yes to each of these questions:

Has the farm been in your family continuously for at least 100 years?

Does the farm have at least 10 acres of the original founder’s land?

Is at least one owner a resident of Louisiana?

Does the farm produce at least $1,000 in farming income annually?

Tree farms have different requirements.

Applications are currently being accepted through December 31, 2014.

“This is an opportunity to document your families’ agricultural legacy in the area in which you live,” added Strain.

There is no cost to apply. Applications may be found online at www.lsuagcenter.com/CenturyFarms or for more information, contact the Louisiana Department of Agriculture and Forestry’s Lillie Adams Wiley at 318-949-3225, ladams@ldaf.la.gov or 740 Covington Rd., Haughton, La. 71037.

This program is sponsored by the Louisiana Department of Agriculture and Forestry, LSU AgCenter, Louisiana Farm Bureau and Louisiana Land Bank.

COOKERY

Delightful Desserts

Mimi's Pecan Pie-Recipe

- | | |
|---|------------------------|
| 1 ½ cups pecan halves | ¾ cup dark corn syrup |
| Mrs. Smith's Deep Dish Frozen Pie Shell | 2 tbsps. melted butter |
| 3 large eggs | 2 tsp. vanilla extract |
| 1 cup sugar | ½ tsp. salt |

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Bake pecans in single layer in a shallow pan 8-10 minutes or until roasted. Stir together eggs and the next five ingredients. Add pecans and pour into unbaked pie shell. Bake at 350 degrees for 55 minutes or until set. Shield piecrust edges with foil after 20 minutes to prevent excess browning.

Blueberry Pie

- | | |
|---|---|
| 1 box of refrigerated pie crust (2) to a box or make your own | 4 cups fresh blueberries (rinsed lightly) |
| ¾ cup sugar | ½ tsp. ground cinnamon |
| 3 tbsps. of cornstarch | 1 tbsps. fresh lemon juice |
| 1 cup of water | ½ tsp. grated lemon zest |

Heat oven to 450 degrees. Press piecrust into pie plate and bake till light brown – set aside, lay out second crust on cookie sheet and use cookie cutter to make shapes, bake till light brown and set aside. In 2-quart sauce pan, combine sugar and cornstarch, mix well. Gradually add water, cook and stir over medium heat until clear, about 10 minutes. Add 1 ½ cups blueberries, reduce heat to low and cover. Cook until berries come to a boil, about 10 minutes. Add cinnamon, lemon juice and lemon zest. Stir, add remaining blueberries, stir. Pour into cooled pie shell and decorate with pie shapes. Let pie stand until set, about 3 hours.

Care now will improve fall roses

By Allen Owings
LSU AgCenter horticulturist

HAMMOND, La. – Late summer is the time to begin preparing for spectacular fall blooms on your roses. Roses need proper disease management and fertilization in August through early September for best fall performance.

Rose flowering and overall performance in the landscape are not impressive during Louisiana summers, but each year we have the potential to have great fall blooms due to cooler temperatures and typically drier weather at that time of year.

You will notice during summer that the flower colors are less intense and blooms are smaller. This is simply a function of summer heat. The best flower color occurs at first bloom in spring and at peak bloom in fall. Size also is best at those times of year. You'll also see darker green leaf color, especially if roses are maintained under a good fertilization program.

One other thing you can do to improve fall rose performance is pruning.

Hybrid tea roses can be pruned back to a height of 30-36 inches. Remove crossing and competing canes and remove canes in the centers of the plants. This thinning-type of cane-removal pruning is generally recommended for late-winter pruning, but it is beneficial in late summer, too.

Floribunda, grandiflora and landscape shrub roses are typically pruned in late summer to reduce plant height by one-third. In north Louisiana, complete pruning by the end of August. In south Louisiana, complete pruning by the first or second week in September. Fall blooms will normally peak 45-50 days after pruning – this is somewhat dependent on growing conditions after pruning, however.

In conjunction with pruning, clear debris from rose beds and pull any weeds. Add a granular pre-emergent herbicide for weed control and mulch with a 2-to-3-inch layer of baled or shredded pine straw. Any new mulch can just be added on top of old mulch already in the beds. Pine bark and other mulch materials can be used if pine straw is not locally available.

Irrigation also needs to be maintained during droughty periods. This year we have been dry at times and wet at times. Roses need 1 inch of water weekly when rainfall is lacking.

It is possible that insects will appear on roses in fall, but insects are more of an issue in spring and summer. Scout plants once weekly. Spider mites, aphids, flower thrips and cucumber beetles are usually the main problem insects on roses.

A new insect causing major problems on roses in Louisiana is chilli thrips. These are foliage-feeding thrips instead of flower-feeding thrips. They are hard to identify and hard to control once a population is established. You can find more information on chilli thrips by going online.

It is important to continue disease control on roses in late summer and fall. If weather is dry, foliage diseases may not be a major problem. But if we have rainfall or overwater or if plants are in partial shade or have air circulation issues, disease can occur.

The amount of disease on roses largely depends on the kind of roses you have. Landscape shrub roses rarely need regular fungicide applications, while hybrid teas, the roses most susceptible to blackspot fungus, need spraying on a 10-day schedule until the first killing frost.

Be sure to fertilize in late summer, too. Most people fertilize at the same time as pruning and mulching. A slow-release fertilizer will produce nice, uniform foliage growth through September and promote October flowering. Rose beds that have been regularly fertilized and contain soil high in phosphorus, potassium, calcium and magnesium may need less fertilization than newer beds or beds that have not been regularly fertilized. Liquid feed can also be included to encourage bloom size in early October.

If soil pH is wrong in your rose beds, fall is a great time to address this issue. The ideal soil pH for roses is 6.2-6.5. You can learn this through a soil test.

Mid-September through October is a great time to plant new roses in your landscape. Try low-maintenance landscape shrubs like the Knock Out varieties and the Drift series. Good floribundas include Cinco de Mayo, Hot Cocoa, Julia Child, Easy Does It and Easy Goin'. You also can select lower-maintenance hybrid tea roses, but these are more available at garden centers in the spring. The Drift roses are Louisiana Super Plants and are increasingly available at local nurseries in seven flower colors.

USDA Rural Small Business Connections set for Aug. 26

U.S. Department of Agriculture Rural Small Business Connections Event will be held Aug. 26 from 8:30 a.m. - 4 p.m. at the Best Western Inn, Suites and Conference Center, 2720 North MacArthur Drive, Alexandria.

The Rural Small Business Connections is designed to provide small businesses and small farmer-owned cooperatives with the exposure and insight to increase small business contracting participation within the Federal government.

This training event will provide small businesses with a series of educational networking sessions and opportunities on how to build capacity and successfully do business with USDA and other federal agencies. Annually, USDA purchases more than $5 billion in goods and services essential to meeting the needs of customers and the various missions of the agency. Approximately 60 percent of these dollars are spent on food commodities.

EXPECTED LONG-TERM OUTCOME: Small farmer-owned cooperatives, small rural businesses, and producers will:

- ♦ Gain a working knowledge necessary for developing the capabilities and certifications to participate in Federal food commodity procurements;
- ♦ Learn about USDA technical assistance resources for business development;

- ♦ Establish relationships with key USDA personnel who are responsible for the development of procurement policy and standards; and

- ♦ Increase demand for their products and services within local food systems, USDA, and other Federal agencies.
