Drones can be a farmer's eye in the sky

LSU AgCenter county agent Jimmy Flanagan from St. Mary Parish and LSU AgCenter engineer Randy Price discuss the different uses of drones in agriculture at a field day recently.

By Veronica Mosgrove

Pointe Coupee farmer, George Lacour, is getting into the drone business.

"I'm getting ready to buy one to check my drainage and irrigation systems," said Lacour. He believes drones will help him on his 5,000 acre soybean, sugarcane and sweet potato farm. "You've got to embrace advancements. My tractor is smarter than me," he joked.

"Farmers, right now, are very interested in drones, but don't know what to do with them," said R.L. Frazier LSU AgCenter county agent for Madison Parish. Frazier, along with other LSU AgCenter technology experts, spent a day in Alexandria recently explaining the advantages of using drones and demonstrating how they can assist farmers. "We don't want farmers to buy them and not use them. We want them to use them and get useful data," Frazier added.

While AgCenter representatives add it is important to still have "boots on the ground," drones have multiple uses including: the observation of plant health and the checking of irrigation systems and breaks in levees.

For Lacour, driving through a wet field is not possible. "This will also keep me from having to walk to the back of the field to see if the drain is plugged up," he added.

Drones can be used to take photos and even live video. At this time, it is believed that very few Louisiana farmers (possibly two percent according to the AgCenter) have integrated drones into their daily routines. "Consultants and crop advisers will use them more. A farmer may be able to manage a drone more easily on a small farm. Otherwise, larger farms would have to invest in a drone operator," said Frazier.

The LSU AgCenter's goal is to make farmers aware of the technology and what can be gained from it. "It's just another tool for farm management decisions," added Frazier.

Lacour believes the use of drones will catch on in the farming industry, but only if farmers see that it truly serves a purpose. "If one farmer gets something and others see it works, they all get it."

Drones and their software range in price from $500 to thousands of dollars.

Federal regulations require licensing of drones. Commercial drone operators must undergo additional training to learn airspace protocol.

Louisiana Agriculture & Forestry Today

Strain meets with presidential ag adviser, EPA

(April 13, 2017) – Louisiana Department of Agriculture and Forestry Commissioner Mike Strain, D.V.M., returned from Washington D.C. Wednesday evening following meetings with high ranking federal administrators. Strain met with Ray Starling who serves as President Donald Trump’s special assistant for agriculture, trade and food assistance and with Scott Pruitt who is the new administrator of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

Strain, who also serves as the president of the National Association of State Departments of Agriculture (NASDA), led a delegation of NASDA members to discuss topics such as international trade agreements for agriculture, proper implementation of the Food Safety Modernization Act (FSMA), and the need for a framework which provides farmers and ranchers a legal, reliable workforce.

Strain and the NASDA members discussed with Pruitt federal policymaking and full funding for federal mandates for which states act as co-regulators. They also highlighted the importance of the EPA to base decisions on science. NASDA members also stressed the importance of volunteer, incentive-based nutrient management programs and the need for sufficient resources to assist in the maintenance and health of agriculture’s most important resource – water. The Waters of the United States (WOTUS), which is the effort to keep navigable waters clean, and Worker Protection Standards (WPS), which are regulations designed to protect agriculture workers, were also discussed.

“Our discussions with Administrator Pruitt and Mr. Starling focused on how the new administration and NASDA can work to continue advancing American agriculture. In order to achieve this, we need to be co-equal partners at the federal and state levels. I was very encouraged by the frank discussions we had about moving the agriculture and forestry industries forward,” said Strain.

This is Strain’s third visit in recent months to Washington D.C. to meet with White House senior cabinet officials.

LDAF now accepting SCBGP applications

Baton Rouge, La. (April 14, 2017) – The Louisiana Department of Agriculture and Forestry (LDAF) is now accepting applications for the 2017 Specialty Crop Block Grant Program (SCBGP), Commissioner Mike Strain, D.V.M., announced today.

Applications must be received no later than close of business (4:30 p.m.) May 15, 2017.

The LDAF will administer the grant program funded through the United States Department of Agriculture – Agricultural Marketing Service (USDA-AMS). The LDAF anticipates at least $346,822.26 to be allocated to fund Louisiana projects.

The grants are to be used for projects that solely enhance the competitiveness of Louisiana-grown specialty crops like fruits, vegetables, tree nuts, dried fruits, horticulture, Christmas trees, turf grass/sod, nursery and greenhouse crops.

Producer associations, state and/or local organizations, state or local governments, qualified educational institutions, non-profits and other specialty crop stakeholders are eligible sub-recipients. All applicants are required to obtain a Data Universal Numbering System (DUNS) number and include that number on their application.

Grant funds will not be awarded for projects that directly benefit a particular commercial product or provide a profit to a single organization, institution or individual. Projects should focus on issues to help improve specialty crop industries as a whole such as: distribution, production, research, market development, food safety, promotion, education, as well as others listed in the Request for Applications (RFA).

Grants can be awarded for projects lasting up to two years and 10 months. Once the deadline has passed, all applications submitted to the LDAF will be carefully evaluated to determine if the projects are qualified based on the criteria listed in the guidelines. All submitted project applications deemed qualified will be reviewed and scored by a panel consisting of industry stakeholders, and the panel will make funding recommendations to LDAF. All LDAF approved projects will be incorporated into one state plan grant request, which will be submitted to the USDA.

The LDAF has prepared a RFA document detailing application instructions, scoring criteria, federal forms, project format examples and other helpful information from the USDA. The document may be found at www.ldaf.la.gov. Click on the 2017 Specialty Crop alert.

A complete list of eligible specialty crops may be found at <http://www.ams.usda.gov/AMSV1.0/scbgpdefinitions>.

For more information, contact Wanda Ward, procurement-contracts/grants supervisor wanda_w@ldaf.state.la.us.

Five teenagers arrested for cruelty and theft of horses

Baton Rouge, La. (April 13, 2017) – Five St. Landry Parish teenagers ranging in age from 13-16 years old are accused of stealing two horses and tack from Dominique's Stockyard in Opelousas on April 4, 2017.

Investigators with the Louisiana Department of Agriculture and Forestry (LDAF) Livestock Brand Commission say the horses were stolen from the stockyard. Through a tip to law enforcement and in conjunction with the St. Landry Parish Sheriff's Department, both horses were recovered. It was also determined that the horses were physically abused. The saddles and related tack was also recovered.

"Thanks to an alert citizen, our investigators swiftly moved in to rescue and recover these animals from this inhumane treatment. Upon their rescue, investigators say there were signs of physical injuries sustained to the horses and evidence collected at the scene to support this. This is intolerable," said LDAF Commissioner Mike Strain, D.V.M.

The suspects were arrested Monday, April 10, 2017. They were placed in a juvenile detention center in Opelousas. Four remain in detention. One has been released to his parents.

Two of the teens are charged with theft of livestock, one is charged with accessory after the fact to theft of livestock, one is charged with theft of livestock and aggravated cruelty of animals, one is charged with accessory after the fact to theft of livestock and aggravated cruelty of animals.

The charges of aggravated cruelty of animals and theft of livestock are both felonies.

Attention: producers, sellers, buyers and shippers of baled hay

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA) Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) regulates the movement of hay out of areas under quarantine for the imported fire ant quarantine zone which includes most of the southeastern United States including Louisiana.

In quarantine areas like Louisiana, USDA only regulates baled hay and baled straw that are stored in direct contact with the ground since it poses a risk for harboring imported fire ants. This hay can move anywhere within the quarantine area but can only move outside of the quarantine area when certain conditions are met.

Baled hay that meets any requirements below is not regulated and has no movement restrictions.

- For baled hay that is stacked, all bales except the bottom layer that is in direct contact with the ground.
- Hay that is cut, baled, loaded, and shipped without storage.
- Baled hay that is stored on an impervious surface such as hard pan (highly compressed soil), asphalt, concrete, etc.
- Baled hay that is stored elevated above the soil on pallets or tires or stored on landscaping cloth placed over the soil.

LDAF officials recommend hay producers, sellers and shippers to contact agriculture officials in the state where hay will be shipped before transporting hay.

For additional information, contact the Louisiana Department of Agriculture and Forestry's Horticulture and Quarantine Division at 225-952-8100 or visit www.aphis.usda.gov/plant-health/ifa.
