The Louisiana Department of Agriculture and Forestry (LDAF) is working with landowners to eradicate an aggressive, invasive species called Cogongrass primarily found in these Florida Parishes:

Livingston, St. Helena, St. Tammany, Tangipahoa and Washington.

“Some people don’t realize it’s an invasive species,” said Agriculture and Forestry Commissioner Mike Strain, D.V.M., who recently visited a farm in St. Tammany Parish where the noxious weed was prevalent.

“If it gets mixed in with bales of hay, it can irritate a cow’s mouth,” added Strain.

The LDAF is working with the federal government to fight this invasive plant by implementing the Cogongrass Treatment Program.

“We know it’s here and we are proactively looking for it,” said Brent Cutrer, LDAF Forest Health Program Director. “We look for circular spots that expand each year and produce a fluffy, white seed head during March and April.

The LDAF is working to identify problem areas by educating landowners and farmers what to look for and through aerial detection by the department’s forestry aviation division while performing normal, routine survey flights.

“Our pilots are trained to look for invasive species and other forest health issues. So far, we have identified 256 acres of cogongrass. Some of the farmers we notify are not even aware they have a cogongrass problem,” said Strain.

Cogongrass (Imperata cylindrica) is native to Asia and has spread to every continent but Antarctica. It reportedly entered Alabama in packing material from Japan in 1911.

It is considered one of the world’s top 10 worst weeds, according to the Global Invasive Species Database.

Last year, the LDAF and the LSU AgCenter held meetings to educate the public on how to identify the cogongrass and provided assistance to manage it.

Cogongrass infestations can affect seedling establishment, new tree growth and wildlife habitats because it chokes out native vegetation. It is highly flammable and burns hotter than native vegetation so it is considered a serious fire hazard where timber is present. For cattle and hay farmers, it provides poor

LIVESTOCK THEFT IN ST. LANDRY PARISH

Baton Rouge, LA (August 9, 2019) - A St. Landry Parish man is accused of stealing 11 head of cattle. Richard P. Breaux, 208 Noah's Ark Blvd., Cankton, La., was arrested by the Louisiana Department of Agriculture and Forestry (LDAF) Livestock Brand Commission on Thursday, August 8, 2019. Breaux is charged with 11 counts of theft of livestock.

According to investigators, the LDAF received several complaints from cattle producers in Southwest Louisiana regarding Breaux's cattle purchasing activities. Breaux is accused of purchasing cattle by check, leaving with the cattle, then allegedly stop payment on the checks given to the cattle producers. Also, Breaux allegedly sold some of the cattle involved. Investigators were able to recover six of the 11 head of cattle.

Agriculture and Forestry Commissioner Mike Strain, D.V.M., said, "This is a good reminder to be careful with whom you do business. When selling cattle from your farm, as opposed to a sale barn, make an effort to get some verification on the purchaser's background before allowing cattle to leave the premises."

The LDAF Livestock Brand Commission was assisted in this investigation by the St. Landry Parish Sheriff's Department.

forage. It is also difficult to get rid of.

“Through the Cogongrass Treatment Program, we are educating people on how to identify it and how to control it,” added Strain.

Cogongrass is primarily spread by transporting the rhizomes, or roots, on equipment, vehicles and other moving implements, but wind also disperses the seeds.

Currently, the LDAF has enrolled 950 spots totaling 180 acres for treatment. So far, 642 spots totaling 108 acres of land in the state have been treated this year.

At this time, there is no single treatment that eliminates cogongrass infestations. Repeated applications of herbicides are necessary to help control it. Cogongrass will not persist in areas that are frequently cultivated.

To help prevent the spread of cogongrass, consider these tips:

- If you see cogongrass, contact the LDAF or your County Extension Office as soon as possible.

- Do not mow through or near the area that has cogongrass, especially if it is flowering, as this may aid in dispersing the seeds.
- Do not do any soil work in or near the area that has cogongrass. You could carry fragments of roots to other areas, spreading this noxious weed.

- Do not attempt any prescribed burns in areas with cogongrass before consulting with the LDAF.
- Be sure to thoroughly clean any and all equipment that has been used in or near an infestation site.

For more information on the Cogongrass Treatment Program, call the LDAF Hammond Office at 985-543-4057.

DO YOU KNOW YOUR DAILY FIRE DANGER RATING LEVELS?

Fire danger is the probability of a fire to start, the rate of spread and intensity of its burn. Awareness of the following fire danger rating levels will help decrease wildfire ignitions.

LOW FIRE DANGER

- Fires do not readily start.
- Fires that do start spread slowly with low resistance to control.

MODERATE FIRE DANGER

- Fires can start from most accidental causes, but the number of starts is generally low.
- Fires burn at moderate intensities, heavy fuel concentrations will burn hot.

HIGH FIRE DANGER

- Fires start easily from most causes.
- Control of fires can become difficult if initial attack not initiated promptly, especially in heavy fuels.
- Most fires controlled within first burning period.

VERY HIGH FIRE DANGER

- Fires start readily and spread quickly.
- Resistance to control is high, as is the potential for large fires.
- Fire behavior is often erratic, "blow up" potential is high.

EXTREME FIRE DANGER

- Severe fire conditions, potential for fire disaster is high.
- Direct attack of fires is virtually impossible, fires often escape initial attack.
- Fire behavior is erratic, "blow ups" may be expected.
- Resistance to control is high, fires not usually controlled until burning subsides.

DID YOU KNOW

- Louisiana's forestland covers about 50% of the state's land area or 14.98 million acres.
- 150,000 forest landowners
- Total value of Louisiana forestry production in 2017 is $3.8 billion

Cattle producer conference set for Oct. 4-5 in West Monroe

Beef cattle producers can hear from industry experts on how to add value to their operations at a stockmanship and stewardship conference on Oct. 4-5 at the Ike Hamilton Expo Center in West Monroe.

Supported by the National Cattlemen's Beef Association, the conference is sponsored regionally through a partnership with the LSU AgCenter, Southern University Ag Center and University of Arkansas Cooperative Extension Service.

The conference is part of the Stockmanship and Stewardship 2019 regional tour featuring cattle experts Curt Pate, Ron Gill and others.

"Having a national program of this caliber offered in our area is a great opportunity for cattle producers to gain firsthand information to improve their cattle production systems," said AgCenter extension veterinarian Christine Navarro.

Conference topics include low-stress cattle handling demonstrations, facility design sessions and Beef Quality Assurance educational programs with BQA certification available.

The Friday program will feature a producer panel to discuss implementing change in cattle handling with. The panel will include David King with Kingsland Ranch in West Monroe, Louisiana; Christina Spencer with Lakeview Angus in Powhatten, Arkansas; Katie and Cooper Hurst with Hunt Hill Cattle Company in Woodville, Mississippi; and Tyson Johnson with Sooner Cattle Company in Pawhuska, Oklahoma.

Registration is $75 per person with a discounted rate of $50 for students.

Participants may register online at <https://www.stockmanshipandstewardship.org/events/west-monroe-la>.

More details are available from the event organizers: Christine Navarre at cnavarre@agcenter.lsu.edu or 225-578-2414, Jason Holmes at jholmes@agcenter.lsu.edu or 318-368-9935, and Lee Faulk at lfaulk@agcenter.lsu.edu or 318-927-2578.

Louisiana Wildfires Down in 10-Year Period

Louisiana Department of Agriculture and Forestry (LDAF) has seen a drastic decrease in wildfires over the past decade for various reasons. According to records, LDAF firefighters battled and suppressed 1,638 wildfires in 2008. In 2018, LDAF firefighters suppressed 676 wildfires in Louisiana.

"We believe there are multiple factors that have contributed to the significant decline in wildfire occurrence throughout Louisiana," said Commissioner Mike Strain, D.V.M.

"While weather and forest conditions continue to vary, our forestry division's efforts are making a difference and reducing the number of destructive wildfires across our state."

The efforts include outreach programs to inform citizens on responsible debris burning, prescribed burning, utilizing modern wildland fire detection techniques and LDAF enforcement officers aggressively pursuing arsonists. LDAF enforcement officers have conducted 150 investigations resulting in 25 arrests in the past five years. These arson cases account for 5,240 acres of burned timberland.

Public awareness efforts include the Certified Prescribed Burner program, in conjunction with the LSU AgCenter, which teaches landowners best practices on how to safely conduct prescribed burns on their property.

The LDAF also utilizes aerial surveillance for wildfire detection and suppression. This practice allows for inspection of larger areas and provides support to ground crews during firefighting efforts.

The LDAF's use of technology such as Geographic Information Systems (GIS) and Global Positioning Satellites (GPS) also helps manage firefighting activities. "The GPS and GIS assist us in plotting areas where fires are being set and are threatening people's lives and properties," added Strain.

Through mutual aid agreements, LDAF wildland firefighters also assist with wildfire fighting efforts in other states. These opportunities provide valuable experiences for LDAF employees, aid to other state and federal agencies and reciprocation of assistance, if needed.

"We are changing the culture when it comes to protecting property from the threat of wildfires," added Strain.

LDAF accepting State Organic Cost-Share Rebate applications

Louisiana agricultural producers and handlers who obtained USDA Organic certification or recertification may qualify for reimbursement of their costs through a 2019 State Organic Cost-Share Rebate program.

The rebates are available for USDA Organic certification and recertification expenses incurred between Oct. 1, 2018 and Sept. 30, 2019. The program will provide reimbursements of up to 75 percent of certification and recertification costs, or up to $750 per year per certification category. Producers must go through their local FSA office to apply for their federal reimbursement before submitting an application for state reimbursement through the Louisiana Department of Agriculture and Forestry (LDAF).

Applications must be received by close of business (4:30 p.m.) December 31, 2019.

The program is funded through USDA's Farm Service Agency (FSA).

The 2019 state Organic Cost-Share Rebate applications are available at www.LDAF.la.gov. Reimbursements will be on a first-come, first-served basis, based on receipt of the completed application packet, until available funding is exhausted.

For more information, contact Jeremy Hendrix at 225-952-8155.
