Mosquito season brings threat of EEE and West Nile Virus

Agriculture and Forestry Commissioner Mike Strain, D.V.M., is urging horse owners to vaccinate their animals for Eastern Equine Encephalitis (EEE) and West Nile Virus (WNV).

“Between the heat and recent wet weather from Tropical Storm Cristobal, the conditions are perfect for mosquitoes,” said Strain. “Horses are infected the same way humans are infected - by being bitten by infected mosquitoes - so everyone needs to take extra precautionary measures at this time.”

At this time, there is one WNV case reported in a horse in St. Tammany Parish. If a mosquito bites an infected bird, EEE or WNV can be spread to horses, dogs, cats and humans. These mosquito-transmitted diseases can cause inflammation or swelling of the brain and spinal cord.

Clinical signs can include: fever, loss of appetite, weakness and loss of coordination.

The disease can often result in death.

EEE primarily causes disease in the equine species such as horses, mules, donkeys and zebras. However, a number of other animals such as pigs, llamas, bats, reptiles, amphibians, and rodents can also be infected.

WNV primarily affects birds, but can also infect bats, horses, cats, dogs, chipmunks, skunks, squirrels, domestic rabbits, alligators and humans.

Prevention includes removing standing water where mosquitoes breed and using mosquito repellents that are safe for animals and humans. Horses can also be vaccinated. So far, there is no vaccination approved for people. Horse owners should contact their local veterinarian regarding proper vaccination protocols during this time of increased risk.

Veterinarians are required to call the Louisiana Department of Agriculture and Forestry if they suspect EEE or WNV in a horse as they are reportable diseases.

Strain statement on the passing of Venoy Kinnaird

Baton Rouge, La. (June 8, 2020) – “One cannot think about Venoy Kinnaird without seeing a big man with a huge smile. Venoy was a true leader in his family, his community, his state, and in agriculture.

“Venoy was not only one of the largest sweet potato farmers in Louisiana in which he farmed 300 acres in Morehouse Parish, but he was also a true advocate for agriculture. He served on the Sweet Potato Commission for years and was a member of the board of directors for the Louisiana Sweet Potato Association. I even got to travel internationally with Venoy as he was a huge advocate for agriculture. Nobody was more influential than he was when it came to agricultural issues and he made a major impact on agriculture policy.

“His pea cooking events were legendary. Every year we looked forward to a gathering in his sweet potato shed to feast on peas and all the fixings. There were also fresh tomatoes, onions and fresh brewed tea. Nothing stopped the festive gathering until we shorted out all of the electrical circuits because we had so many fans running in the Louisiana heat.

“Venoy graciously agreed to host a pea cooking gathering for Governor John Bel Edwards and me as we toured the state to discuss agricultural and rural issues with farmers. I will never forget the many wonderful memories I have of Venoy.

“Venoy was serious about agriculture and rural Louisiana. In every visit, there was a serious discussion of the issues of the day. He was a good friend, a true leader, and he will be dearly missed.”

EDUCATION & WORKSHOPS

The Nutrition, Health and Wellness Department of the Southern University Ag Center will conduct a Facebook Live Series with Nutrition Education and Physical Activity lessons through its Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP-Ed) and Expanded Food and Nutrition Education Program (EFNEP).

The live streams will be held June 17 – July 8 at 10 a.m. and 12 p.m. on the SUAg SNAP-Ed's Facebook page. For a complete list of Facebook Live topics with the date and times of the live streams visit www.suagcenter.com.

SNAP-Ed is the nutrition promotion and obesity prevention component of the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP), the U.S. domestic hunger safety net formerly known as Food Stamps that provides economic benefits to eligible, low-income individuals and families for food purchases. The program teaches people using or eligible for SNAP about proper nutrition and how to make food dollars stretch further. SNAP-Ed participants also learn to be physically active.

The SU Ag Center's SNAP-Ed program has been in existence for more than 20 years and operates in 13 parishes throughout the state of Louisiana: Ascension, Avoyelles, Calcasieu, East Baton Rouge, East Carroll, East Feliciana, Evangeline, Jefferson Davis, Madison, Morehouse, St. James, Richland, and West Carroll.

EFNEP is designed to assist limited-resource adults and youth in acquiring the knowledge, skills, attitudes, and behavioral changes necessary for nutritionally sound diets. EFNEP Programming is currently available in Avoyelles, Evangeline, and Rapides parishes.

SU Ag Center prepares for 78th Annual State Livestock Show

As the Southern University Ag Center prepares for its 78th annual State Livestock and Poultry Show, the health and safety of our show's participants is important.

In an effort to keep exhibitors informed with up-to-date information about the 2021 show, the SU Ag Center's Livestock Show Office has released the following statement:

Due to COVID-19 health concerns, the Southern University Ag Center can not guarantee that the 2021 Livestock and Poultry Show will occur as advertised. All livestock show participants and their families should be aware that the purchase and/or validation of animals for the 2021 livestock show is at their own risk and financial investment.

"The safety and well-being of our Livestock Show participants and families is a priority for the Southern University Ag Center," said Dr. Harold Mellieon, Livestock Show Director. "We have released this statement to ensure that our participants are aware of our plans for the upcoming show," he added.

Updates regarding the Ag Center's 78th Annual Livestock Show will be available on the Southern University Ag Center's website.

J.S. Aucoin Elementary donates school garden bounty to senior meal program

By Richard Bogren, Losavio, Ruthie
LSU AgCenter

(06/12/20) AMELIA, La. — When the school garden at J.S. Aucoin Elementary started producing an abundance of cucumbers, LSU AgCenter area nutrition agent Jessica Randazzo saw the perfect opportunity to give back to the community.

"We had more cucumbers than we knew what to do with," Randazzo said. "We reached out to the Council on Aging to see if we could donate the produce to their meal delivery boxes for seniors."

The school garden provided more than 50 cucumbers to the senior feeding program.

"They're already asking when I can bring more," Randazzo said.

The St. Mary Parish Council on Aging senior feeding program has been delivering meal boxes to low-income seniors across the parish amid the pandemic.

"Our dedicated employees that have been delivering meals during this time of isolation were excited to also provide fresh produce," said Beverly Domengeaux, St. Mary Parish Council on Aging director. "It put a big smile on all our seniors' faces to have something fresh."

Before COVID-19, J.S. Aucoin Elementary's school garden club gave students the opportunity to grow their own food and try new recipes.

The program proved to be a huge success. Students were eager to try the vegetables they had grown. The school cafeteria even incorporated vegetables from the garden into school lunches.

"Two years ago, when I was asked if I wanted to be president of the garden club, I was hesitant to say 'yes' because of how the garden looked at the time," said Tracy Gros, J.S. Aucoin Healthy Communities Coalition and faculty member.

"Once the garden was finished, we stayed after school and the students couldn't wait to plant," Gros said. "During the day I would go outside to see if anything was growing or needed watering, but the students were there before me."

Despite school campus closures and summer vacation, the school garden continues to thrive thanks to the care and attention of the J.S. Aucoin Healthy Communities coalition and faculty volunteers like Gros.

The school's Healthy Communities coalition focuses on improving health at J.S. Aucoin through community-led, sustainable physical and social environmental changes. The school garden is just one of those changes.

MASK UP LOUISIANA

The CDC recommends wearing a mask or face covering while in indoor public spaces and anytime in public when you are near others who are not in your immediate household. Those with breathing challenges or those under the age of two should not wear a mask. Wearing a mask is about protecting others. When you wear a mask, you protect others, and when others wear a mask they protect you. Continue to practice social distancing and MASK UP.
