Behind the Scenes with the Division of Weights and Measures

By Paul Floyd

The Louisiana Department of Agriculture and Forestry's (LDAF) Weights and Measures inspectors ensure integrity in the marketplace by working behind the scenes to ensure that you are getting what you pay for. One way this is done is by checking the net contents of packaged goods. Pre-packaged goods include all types of products from apples to zucchini. When you see the net weight declared on a package, the packing materials should not be part of that weight. The net contents of a package may only be the weight, volume, or count of the product itself.

When you purchase ribeye steaks at $19.99 per pound, you should only be charged for the steaks, not the tray, wrapping material, and labels. Let's say those materials weigh a total of 0.03 lbs. That doesn't seem like a big deal, but if it's not deducted from the gross weight, you will end up paying an extra $0.60 for packing materials.

It's the duty and responsibility of our Division of Weights and Measures Inspectors to officiate the marketplace fairly and evenly.

Inspector David Deroche explaining package requirements to Cannata's Market Manager, Dwaine Dupre.

We must not focus on only one aspect of the market, but on all aspects. One of the largest segments is that of pre-packaged goods. These items, which are packed before the point of sale, are usually away from the consumer's view.

Checking the net content of prepackaged goods is a foundational function of the Weights and Measures Division of LDAF. The more confidence consumers have in the quantity accuracy of the products they purchase, the stronger and more equitable the marketplace becomes. Thorough checks of these products for quantity accuracy ensure the highest consumer confidence and a more fair and equitable marketplace for all. The ultimate goal with all inspection procedures, though, is to ensure that the consumer receives exactly what is purchased.

For complaints or comments, please contact the Weights and Measures Division at 800-247-1086, 225-925-3780 or acs@ldaf.state.la.us.

LOUISIANA AGRICULTURE & FORESTRY TODAY

Lifetime Brands

There is some exciting news on the brand front. Legislation has been passed which will allow the purchase of a Lifetime Brand. The Lifetime Brand rules, application, and fee of $75 were approved at the Livestock Brand Commission meeting on October 29, 2021. The promulgation of the rules will be completed on March 20, 2022. Once completed the Lifetime

Brand will be available to the public.

State Representative Francis Thompson sponsored the legislation (Act 234 of the 2021 Regular Session), and worked hard to push this through to the finish line. Permanent registration assures that the family brand can be passed down for many generations to come. Currently, the Louisiana Department of Agriculture & Forestry has approximately 5,300 unique brands registered in Louisiana. Each one representing a separate ranching operation.

We hope the 2021 holiday season was a joyous occasion, spent with loved ones on Louisiana's family farms and ranch lands. May 2022 bring you happiness, peace, prosperity... and your new Lifetime Brand.

CHICKEN AND DUMPLINGS

Submitted by Creative Cajun Cooking

Ingredients:

- 1 pack of Creative Cajun Cooking's Dumplin' Magic
- 5 cups water
- 4 pounds of boneless / skinless chicken thighs
- 1 cup green onion tops and 1 cup bottoms (keep separate)
- 4-5 cups heavy cream or half and half (1 quart will do, add extra if you want)
- 1¼ cup all-purpose flour
- 1 can of biscuits (about 1 pound)
- 15 ounces drained green peas and sliced carrots, sliced green onions for garnish, optional

Instructions:

In a 6 quart or larger pot, mix chicken, water, and Creative Cajun Cooking's Dumplin' Magic. Bring to a slow boil and cook until chicken gets tender. While chicken is cooking, break out a large cutting board and spread out flour, then pile most of it in the corner, leaving a thin coating on the cutting board. Open the can of biscuits and one at a time roll each one out to about ⅛ inch thickness using a light sprinkle of flour to keep them from sticking. Cut the flat biscuits into 6-8 pieces pending size of dumplings you want. Pile the cut biscuits in one corner of cutting board for placing in a pot at a later time. Scrape up the extra flour and place in a bowl, then pour the cream into it and whisk until smooth. After chicken is tender, pour in the cream and flour mixture making sure it is stirred frequently by scraping the bottom so it doesn't stick. Once the liquid thickens up, and it has a slow bubbling, add in the biscuit pieces a few at a time, stirring softly until they swell up. Once the dumplings are cooked and no longer doughy, add in, if you would like, a few green peas and or carrots (frozen or canned). Stir and cook just until heated through. Once the Chicken and Dumplings are placed in a bowl, you can sprinkle some finely chopped green onion tops for added color.

Marketing Dollars for Louisiana Wood Exporters Available through the Southern U.S. Trade Association

What if someone said they would split the cost of your booth at VietnamWood? In addition to that, they would also split travel (flight, lodging and a per diem for meals and incidentals) for two employees or company representatives to Ho Chi Minh City, a translator for your booth, your brochures and even the items you plan to give away at the show, like koozies with your company name?

This scenario is a reality for Louisiana sawmills and wood producers who want to promote their brands internationally. Through the Southern United States Trade Association's (SUSTA) 50% Cost-Share program, companies can apply for 50% reimbursement of international promotions to increase exports of U.S. wood products.

The list of eligible promotions goes beyond assistance for exhibiting at international trade shows and related travel. If you want to translate pages on your website or create a foreign URL, you can apply for 50% reimbursement of the translation as well as the tech development costs. If you want to advertise in a foreign industry publication, the costs of creating and publishing the ads are 50% reimbursable. This includes social media advertisements targeting a foreign country. Does that mean you need to become an expert in Facebook Vietnam? No. You can hire a firm in country to create and deploy a marketing campaign there, and apply for 50% reimbursement. Participating in a trade mission organized by the USDA or one of their cooperators, like the American Hardwood Export Council (AHEC), is also eligible; you can apply for 50% reimbursement of the fee to participate, travel expenses for two, brochures, point of sale material and more.

"Marketing and promoting your brand domestically is expensive, but it is a necessary ingredient for success. International marketing and promotions are exponentially more expensive given the travel, translation, shipping and time required. Through our programs, the USDA's Foreign Agricultural Service ensures that smaller producers can compete internationally," said Bernadette Wiltz-Lang, Executive Director, SUSTA.

The requirements are that the applicant company must be small by Small Business Administration (SBA) size standards, which for a sawmill means fewer than 500 employees, and the products must be grown/forested in the U.S. The international promotions must promote a brand, which can be the name of the company or mill, and there must be a U.S. origin statement on all promotions clearly indicating that the product is American (or the name of the state).

Interested in learning more? Visit the SUSTA website (www.susta.org) or call (504)568-5986.

Center of Excellence at the SU Ag Center receives $500,000 from 1890 Foundation

Baton Rouge, La. – The Center of Excellence for Nutrition, Health, Wellness, and Quality of Life (NHWQL), located at the Southern University Agricultural Research & Extension Center (SU Ag Center), is pleased to announce that it has been awarded $500,000 from the 1890 Universities Foundation. This funding is made possible through a grant from Walmart's Center for Racial Equity.

"The 1890 Universities Foundation is pleased to provide supplemental funding to support the important work of the Center for Nutrition, Health, Wellness, and Quality of Life which is the newest center in the 1890 Centers of Excellence program. This funding is made possible through the 1890 Foundation's partnership with Walmart and is an example of the Foundation's mission to assist the 1890 Universities by leveraging partnerships to fund innovative solutions to address compelling economic, social, health, environmental and technological challenges facing our communities," said Dr. Mort Neufville, President and CEO of the 1890 Universities Foundation.

"The Southern University Ag Center is appreciative to the Walmart Foundation who recognized that the Southern University Center of Excellence for Nutrition, Health, Wellness and Quality of Life was worthy of investing in, as it aligns with our mutual goals around improving the quality of life for the Citizens we collectively serve," said Dr. Orlando F. McMeans, Chancellor-Dean of the SU Ag Center and the College of Ag. "I am also appreciative to USDA-NIFA for awarding Southern this Center of Excellence designation and its initial funding. And lastly, thanks to the 1890 Foundation and its leadership for seeking partnerships that will advance the missions of these Centers," expressed Dr. McMeans. Walmart announced the grant in a press release stating that the funds will build staff capacity to prepare students for careers in fields such as agriculture, healthcare, and technology via the Foundation's four Centers of Excellence across its 19 institutions.

"We are very grateful to Walmart for providing us with this grant through our 1890 Universities Foundation," said Dr. Fatemeh Malekian, Project Director for NHWQL and Director of the Institute for Food, Nutrition and Wellness at the SU Ag Center. "This funding will assist the team (consisting of the SU Ag Center, North Carolina A&T State University, Tuskegee University, and the 1890 Universities Foundation) in increasing the capacity of the Center of Excellence for Nutrition, Health, Wellness and Quality of Life, in supporting the tripartite land-grant's mission of research, teaching and extension and contributing solutions to improve the health and well-being of underserved and minority populations," added Dr. Malekian.

In May, the SU Ag Center was named as one of four 1890 Centers of Excellence grant recipients to receive funding from the U.S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA) National Institute of Food and Agriculture (NIFA).

The Ag Center received $1,680,000 in funding to establish NHWQL, which addresses diet-related health disparities in African Americans by increasing the capacities of 1890 institutions through nutrition research, teaching and extension. NIFA award the Ag Center an additional $1,680,000 earlier this month to enable the Center to continue its work for a second year.

The 1890 Universities Foundation was established in December 2016 and supports the core mission of education, outreach, and academics across the nineteen 1890 land grant universities in the United States. These universities, called Historically Black College and Universities (HBCUs) were established through the Morrill Land Grant Act of 1890.

Walmart also funded grants to the Joint Center for Political and Economic Studies, a think tank dedicated to research and advocacy to equip Black and African Americans with the skills needed to thrive in the evolving economy and researches the barriers and gaps that exist within education and training for economic advancement and to CodePath, which aims to increase diversity in tech by transforming college computer science education.

In total, Walmart provided $3 million in grants to the three areas. For additional information about the Center of Excellence for Nutrition, Health, Wellness, and Quality of Life, contact Dr. Fatemeh Malekian at fatemeh_malekian@suag-center.com or Dr. Renita Marshall, Co-Project Director for NHWQL and SU Ag Center Vice-Chancellor for Academic and Student Services/ Associate Dean of the College of Agricultural, Family and Consumer Sciences at renita_marshall@suagcenter.com.
