USDA offers Summer Food Service Program

There is no reason for children to go hungry in this country. Yet it happens - every day, in every community. About 1 in 10 US children live in a food-insecure household, according to a new report from the CDC's National Center for Health Statistics (NCHS).

Food security is defined as having access to enough food for an active, healthy life at all times. The USDA - Economic Research Service (ERS) reported that a lack of food security, or food insecurity, affected 10.5 percent of all U.S. households in 2020. While this number is mostly unchanged from 2019, households with children, however, experienced statistically significant increases in food insecurity during the Coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic. In 2020, 14.8 percent of households with children were food-insecure, up from 13.6 percent in 2019. This increase was the first increase since 2011 and disrupted a decade-long downward trend.

Unfortunately, Louisiana suffers from some of the worst rates of child poverty and food insecurity in the nation. Before COVID-19, nearly one in four Louisiana children lived in households that couldn't afford consistent access to nutritious meals, and more than 25% lived in families earning wages below the poverty line ($25,750 for a family of four in 2019). Food insecurity has only increased in the state since the pandemic.

For those children, free and reduced-price school meals are a key source of nutritious food. Many children across the nation receive free or reduced-price breakfast and lunch while school is in session through USDA's School Breakfast and National School Lunch Programs. However, when schools let out for the summer, many of these children are likely to have limited to no access to breakfast and lunch, making summer the hungriest time of the year for many kids. The answer is free summer lunch programs, like the Summer Food Service Program (SFSP), which are run by local schools or community groups.

The Summer Food Service Program, also known as the Summer Meals Program, was established to ensure that children continue to receive nutritious meals when school is not in session. The SFSP is a federally-funded, state-administered program. The SFSP reimburses providers who serve free healthy meals to children and teens in low-income areas during the summer months.

The SFSP is administered on behalf of the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) through the state's education department. The Louisiana Department of Agriculture and Forestry (LDAF) provides the USDA food for this program as well as manages the food storage and distribution. Any child aged 18 or younger, or anyone over the age of 18 who is determined by a state or local educational agency or a local public education agency to be mentally or physically disabled and who participates during the school year in a public or private non-profit school program established for the mentally or physically disabled, may receive meals through the SFSP.

"Without this program, many children will go hungry, and that's the bottom line," said the LDAF Commissioner Mike Strain, DVM. "With the USDA, the Department of Education, and the school entities, we all work together to make this program a success."

The program is held in economically disadvantaged areas or neighborhoods and communities in which half of the school children are eligible to receive free or reduced-price meals during the school year. Eligibility may also be determined by census information, via the use of site-level Community Eligibility Provision (CEP) information, or by use of individual eligibility of children.

Over the last five years, there has been a decline in the number of children receiving summer meals in Louisiana, as well as a declining number of sites in the state participating in the program. As a result, Louisiana kids are left with fewer places to find free summer meals. Between the summer of 2015 and the summer of 2019, the number of sites serving summer meals in the state fell by 16.4%. In summer 2019, eight Louisiana parishes lacked any summer meal sites, while others had far fewer sites than needed to serve children living in poverty. Local organizations

Making Your Land More Resilient to Drought

In 2021, Louisiana received a lot more rain than usual. Seven months out of the year recorded above-average rainfall totals. But October, November, and December were among some of the driest months. From November 2021 to February 2022, Louisiana experienced its second driest period for those four months since 1895, with less than 10 inches of precipitation recorded statewide. That said, all of Louisiana is or has recently been in a level of drought.

Drought is a hazard of nature. Unfortunately, it does not announce its arrival like other natural hazards. In fact, many call it a “creeping phenomenon” because what may first appear to be merely a dry spell can only be discerned in hindsight as the early days of a drought.

Currently, the entire state is experiencing at least “moderate” drought, according to the U.S. Drought Monitor. Drought classifications are measured in five levels: abnormally dry, moderate drought, severe drought, extreme drought, and exceptional drought. In the “severe drought” stage, grass does not grow, the ground is cracking, grazing forage is lost, trees are stressed, and creek and bayou water levels are low. In the “extreme drought” stage, rice crops become expensive to maintain, soybean yields are reduced, rye growth is stunted, saltwater intrudes into rivers making rivers too salty for irrigation, trees are stressed, and the crawfish population declines. Water pressure may fall, and officials may ask for voluntary water restrictions. Springtime allergies may worsen, and the air quality may drop.

look Report for the Southern Region, La Niña condition. See DROUGHT, page 23

WHITE PEPPER BLEND POKE TUNA WRAPS

Submitted by Slap Ya Mama

Ingredients:

- 1 pound of poke tuna
- 2 teaspoons of Slap Ya Mama White Pepper Blend Seasoning
- ½ lime (plus more wedges for serving)
- ½ tablespoon sesame seeds
- Ponzu sauce (of choice)
- Butter lettuce
- Green cabbage
- Red cabbage
- Carrots
- Slap Ya Mama Hot Sauce

Instructions:

In a medium bowl, whisk together the Ponzu sauce, Slap Ya Mama White Pepper Blend and lime juice. Transfer the tuna to the marinade and let sit for a few minutes in the refrigerator, while you prep the rest of the ingredients. Slice cabbage and carrots into a slaw. Fill each lettuce cup with a desired amount of slaw. Place a mound of spicy tuna on top of wrap. Top each wrap with Slap Ya Mama Hot Sauce or pour into a bowl for dipping. Sprinkle with sesame seeds. Serve the lettuce wraps with extra lime wedges!

UNCLE’S BARBEQUE SAUCE PORK SPARE RIBS

Submitted by Uncle’s BBQ Sauce

Ingredients:

- Pork Spare Ribs - Trimmed
- Uncle’s Barbeque Sauce
- Hickory wood chips soaked in water
- Lemon Pepper
- Garlic Powder
- White Pepper
- Tony Chacherie’s (regular)
- Rub olive oil onto top & bottom of ribs
- Coat evenly Uncle’s BBQ Sauce and seasonings

Instructions:

Throw ribs on pit, brown top and bottom until they look good enough to eat. Approximately 15 minutes. Remove ribs from pit and wrap tightly in aluminum foil. Lower heat on pit and place ribs bone side down. Cook for 45-50 minutes. Remove immediately from pit and open in foil pan. Be careful of the hot juice! Throw away juice. Place ribs on cutting board bone side up. Slice with electric knife on edge of bone. Coat each rib piece evenly with Uncle’s BBQ Sauce and lay into foil pan. To glaze sauce onto rib, place in 200 degrees F oven uncovered for 30 minutes. Light pit and let coals get white hot. Lift grill and throw wet wood chips on top of coals. Be careful not to burn yourself. Close pit until chips begin to smoke. Open pit and place ribs bone side down first. Brown top and bottom of ribs until they look good enough to eat. Approximately 15 minutes. Remove ribs from pit and wrap tightly in aluminum foil. Place ribs back on pit bone side down. Close vents 90% and cook for 40-45 minutes. Remove from pit immediately and open in foil pan. Be careful of the hot juice! Throw away any juice. Place ribs on cutting board bone side up. Slice with electric knife on edge of bone. Coat each rib piece evenly with Uncle’s BBQ Sauce & lay into foil pan. To glaze sauce onto rib place in 200 degrees F oven uncovered for 30 minutes.

June is National Pet Preparedness Month

June is National Pet Preparedness Month, giving us all a helpful reminder of what to do in case of an emergency or natural disaster. Your pets are an important member of your family, so they need to be included in your family's emergency plan. To prepare for the unexpected, follow these tips with your pets in mind:

- Make a plan.
- Build an emergency kit.
- Stay informed.

If you have a plan in place for you and your pets, you will likely encounter less difficulty, stress, and worry when you need to make a decision during an emergency. If local officials ask you to evacuate, that means your pet should evacuate too. If you leave your pets behind, they may end up lost, injured, or worse.

By law, the LDAF is designated by the Louisiana Homeland Security and Emergency Assistance and Disaster Act to assist in evacuating and sheltering household pets for evacuated citizens going to shelters during declared emergencies. The LDAF has two mobile pet shelters to assist in keeping family pets in close proximity to their owners when an evacuation is necessary. Those pet trailers and LDAF employees are ready to be mobilized, if necessary.

The following are some basic tips that will help ensure you and your pets are prepared in the face of an emergency:

#BeInformed

Ready

Emergency Kit

Food, water, collar, and veterinary records are some items for your pet's emergency kit. View what items should go in it: www.ready.gov/pets. A pet supply kit should contain the basics for survival like pet food and water.

- Put a favorite toy, treats or bedding in your pet's emergency kit to help reduce their stress.
- Take care of farm friends in an emergency. Pack emergency items for them too, including vehicles and trailers.
- Keep your pets' vet's name and vaccination records handy in case of emergency.
- Don't forget a pooper scooper, cat litter, or plastic bags in your pets' emergency kit!

Evacuation

- Practice evacuating in the car with your animals, so they're more comfortable if you need to evacuate in an emergency.
- If officials tell you to evacuate before a storm, don't leave pets behind!

Shelter

- Make a list & check it twice. List the address & number of all the places you can take your pet in an emergency.
- Pets displaced by a disaster are frequently kept in shelters or held by local organizations. The LDAF has two mobile pet shelters to assist in keeping family pets in close proximity to their owners when an evacuation is necessary.

Identification

- Keep that cute selfie of you & your pet in your emergency kit to prove ownership.
- Does your pet have ID? Put your name and contact information on your pet's ID tag in case you're separated in an emergency.
- Tip: Include the number of an out of town relative on your pet's ID tag.
- Think about "microchipping" your pet. These permanent implants help locate your pet following a disaster.
- Tip: Keep your pets' microchip registration info current so you can be contacted if your pet gets lost in a disaster.
- After a disaster, don't allow your pets to roam loose. Landmarks may have been changed & your pet could become disoriented.

LDAF's Taylor Perrodin selected as one of LSU's Tiger Twelve

Four LSU College of Agriculture students were select as part of the LSU Tiger Twelve Class of 2022. LSU's Tiger Twelve is an initiative that highlights a select group of undergraduate seniors who have contributed to LSU campus life and positively impacted the Baton Rouge community. Each spring, 12 distinguished LSU seniors receive this prestigious recognition.

In this year's Tiger Twelve is the Louisiana Department of Agriculture and Forestry's very own Taylor Perrodin. Over the past three and half years, Taylor has interned for the LDAF, fostering skills in marketing, trade, and supply chain production. With a passion for agriculture and law, Taylor is an aspiring environmental attorney with long-term sights on the U.S. Senate to support change in environmental policy. While at LSU Taylor also served as the Speaker Pro Tempore for Student Government, as Vice President for the College of Agriculture Les Voyageurs, and as Vice President in the co-ed professional business fraternity Alpha Kappa Psi. She has also spoken at the Future Farmers

NASS to reach out to Louisiana producers on 2022 crops, stocks, and values

During the next several weeks, the U.S. Department of Agriculture's National Agricultural Statistics Service (NASS) will conduct two major mid-year surveys, the June Agricultural Survey and the June Area Survey. The agency will contact nearly 1,100 producers across Louisiana to determine crop acreage and stock levels as of June 1, 2022. In addition, NASS will collect information from farmers and ranchers from randomly selected land area segments across the state.

"The June Agricultural Survey and the June Area Survey are two of the most important and well-known surveys NASS conducts," explained Kathy Broussard, state statistician of the NASS Louisiana State field Office. "When producers respond to these surveys, they provide essential information that helps determine the expected acreage and supply of major commodities in the United States for the 2022 crop year. The results are used by farmers and ranchers, USDA, businesses, exporters, researchers, economists, policymakers, and others to inform a wide range of decisions."

Producers can respond to the June Agricultural Survey online at agcounts.usda.gov, by phone, or through mail. They will be asked to provide information on planted and harvested acreage, including acreage for biotech crops and grain stocks. For the June Area Survey, agency representatives will interview farm and ranch operators in randomly selected segments over the phone. Producers will be asked to provide information on crop acreage, grain stocks, livestock inventory, land values, and value of sales.

"NASS safeguards the privacy of all respondents, by keeping all individual information confidential and publishing the data in aggregate form only to ensure that no operation or producer can be identified," said Broussard. "We recognize that this is a hectic time for farmers, but the information they provide helps U.S. agriculture remain viable and capable. I urge them to respond to these surveys and thank them for their cooperation."

NASS will analyze the survey information and publish the results in a series of USDA reports, including the annual Acreage and quarterly Grain Stocks reports June 30, 2022. Survey data also contribute to NASS's monthly and annual Crop Production reports, the annual Small Grains Summary, annual Farms and Land in Farms and Land Values reports, various livestock reports, including Cattle, Sheep and Goats, and Hogs and Pigs, and USDA's monthly World Agricultural Supply and Demand Estimates.

These and all NASS reports are available at nass.usda.gov/Publications/.

For more information, call the NASS Delta Regional Field Office at (800) 327-2970.

of America Convention. Taylor is graduating as a member of the LSU Tiger Twelve and has accepted a full scholarship to pursue her juris doctor at the New England School of Law in Boston. We will miss her dearly and wish her the best of luck in her future endeavors.

Taylor Perrodin

Major: Agricultural Economics and Agribusiness

Hometown: Crowley, Louisiana

Taylor Perrodin is an LSU Ogden Honors College student graduating with a degree in agricultural business. Perrodin took advantage of her time at LSU to better the Baton Rouge community and prepare herself for law school.

In addition to focusing on her studies, Perrodin was heavily involved in campus life throughout her college career. She held leadership positions for LSU Student Government, Les Voyageurs and Alpha Kappa Psi. Through her involvement with LSU Student Government, she contributed to creating a pilot program that helped combat food insecurity on LSU's campus.

Perrodin interned with the Louisiana Department of Agriculture and Forestry for three years, taking a special interest in the international trade program. From this experience, she secured a government relations internship with the International Fresh Produce Association for summer 2022.

After graduation, Perrodin will be attending New England Law School in Boston on a full scholarship to study environmental law.

"For me, receiving the Tiger Twelve recognition shows me that it is possible to make an impact on the environment and those around you, and that hard work pays off," Perrodin said. "LSU was my dream school, and it means the world to me to be recognized as a committed leader to the university that has given me so much."

Lawn Mowers

WHEN CAN KIDS MOW THE LAWN?

PUSH MOWER

Age 12
or older

RIDING MOWER

Age 16
or older

- Kids must be both strong and mature enough.
- Train teens to operate the mower safely.
- Wear eye protection, and closed toe shoes.

Even though lawn mowers travel at low speeds, the blades on the deck revolve at high speeds, sometimes causing grass, weeds, sticks and even rocks to be thrown at dangerous speeds. In the U.S., more than 9,000 children go to the emergency room for lawn mower-related injuries every year.

Power mowers can be especially dangerous. However, most lawn mower-related injuries can be prevented by following these safety guidelines.

Before mowing the lawn:

- Make sure that children are indoors or at a safe distance well away from the area that you plan to mow.
- Read the lawn mower operator's manual and the instructions on the mower.
- Check conditions:
 - Do not mow during bad weather, such as during a thunderstorm.
 - Do not mow wet grass.
 - Do not mow without enough daylight.
- Clear the mowing area of any objects, such as twigs, stones, and toys, that could be picked up and thrown by the lawn mower blades.
- Make sure that protective guards, shields, the grass catcher, and other types of safety equipment are placed properly on the lawn mower and that your mower is in good condition.
- If your lawn mower is electric, use a ground fault circuit interrupter to prevent electric shock.
- Never allow children to ride as passengers on ride-on lawn mowers or garden tractors.

While mowing:

- Wear sturdy closed-toe shoes with slip-proof soles, close-fitting clothes, safety goggles or glasses with side shields, and hearing protection.
- Watch for objects that could be picked up and thrown by the mower blades, as well as hidden dangers. Tall grass can hide objects, holes or bumps. Use caution when approaching corners, trees or anything that might block your view.
- If the mower strikes an object, stop, turn the mower off, and inspect the mower. If it is damaged, do not use it until it has been repaired.
- Do not pull the mower backwards or mow in reverse unless absolutely necessary, and carefully look for children behind you when you mow in reverse.
- Use extra caution when mowing a slope.
- When a walk-behind mower is used, mow across the face of slopes, not up and down, to avoid slipping under the mower and into the blades.
- With a riding mower, mow up and down slopes, not across, to avoid tipping over.
- Keep in mind that lawn trimmers also can throw objects at high speed.
- Stop the engine and allow it to cool before refueling.

Always turn off the mower and wait for the blades to stop completely before:

- Crossing gravel paths, roads, or other areas.
- Removing the grass catcher.
- Unclogging the discharge chute.
- Walking away from the mower.

USDA Announces Disaster Assistance for 2020 and 2021

By Jamison Cruce

The U.S. Department of Agriculture announced a $6 billion Emergency Relief Program (ERP), the new disaster recovery assistance program for agricultural producers. Funding for ERP was provided by Congress as part of the Extending Government Funding and Delivering Emergency Assistance Act that was signed into law by President Biden on September 30, 2021. Previous iterations of similar programs were known as the Wildfire Hurricane Indemnity Program (WHIP) and WHIP Plus.

Covering eligible natural disasters, including wildfires, hurricanes, floods, derechos, excessive heat, winter storms, freeze (including a polar vortex), smoke exposure, excessive moisture, qualifying drought, and related conditions, in calendar years 2020 and 2021, the first phase of the program will provide assistance to producers using available data from Federal Crop Insurance or the Noninsured Crop Disaster Assistance Program (NAP).

In an effort to streamline the application process, the USDA Farm Service Agency (FSA) will send producers pre-filled applications where crop insurance and NAP data are already on file. Separate application forms will be sent for each program year. USDA cautions that receipt of an application form is not a guarantee of eligibility. Additionally, certain forms must be on file with FSA within 60 days of the application deadline, which will be announced at a later date.

Phase One payments for crops covered by crop insurance are prorated at 75 percent. Payment calculations under ERP Phase One are dependent on the crop insurance type and coverage level obtained by a producer, with ERP payment factors ranging from 70 to 95 percent. If at least 75 percent of a producer's average adjusted gross income (AGI) is derived from farming, ranching, or forestry activities, producers are eligible to receive $250,000 per program year. Additionally, as a part of the payment calculation, producers' paid premiums and service fees will be subtracted from the gross crop insurance indemnity already received for those losses.

Producers receiving assistance from ERP Phase One will be required to purchase Federal crop insurance for the next two available crop years at a coverage level equal to or greater than 60 percent for insurable crops.

ERP Phase Two assistance details will be announced later but is designed to fill gaps and misses from Phase One assistance.

HOMEMADE VANILLA ICE CREAM

1 3/4 cups heavy cream

1 1/4 cup whole milk

3/4 cup sugar

1/8 teaspoon fine sea salt

1 tablespoon vanilla extract or 1 vanilla bean split in half lengthwise

5 MINS

Pour 1 cup of the cream into a saucepan and add the sugar, salt. Scrape the seeds of the vanilla bean into the pot and then add the vanilla pod to the pot. Warm the mixture over medium heat, just until the sugar dissolves. Remove from the heat and add the remaining cream, milk, and vanilla extract (if using extract). Stir to combine and chill in the refrigerator.

When ready to churn, remove the vanilla pod, whisk mixture again and pour into ice cream maker. Churn according to the manufacturer's instructions. Transfer the finished ice cream to an airtight container and place in the freezer until ready to serve.

are urged to consider becoming sponsors to help reach more Louisiana kids relying on these programs for a healthy meal.

Approved sponsors receive financial assistance to help with the cost of obtaining, preparing, and serving food under the program, including administrative costs. Sponsors must be able to provide a capable staff, managerial skills, and food service capabilities. A sponsor may provide its own meals, purchase meals through an agreement with an area school, or contract for meals with a food vendor. Examples of local organizations that often serve as sponsors include public or private non-profit schools; local, municipal, parish, tribal, or state governments; private non-profits; public or private non-profit camps; and private or non-profit universities or colleges.

tions persisted in the tropical Pacific Ocean during the winter, contributing to warm and dry conditions across much of the Southern Region. South-central and southwest Louisiana experienced their driest winter on record, with precipitation less than 50% of normal. Overall, it was the 21st driest winter on record, with an average of 6.14 inches of precipitation. Temperatures averaged 15th warmest on record, driven by a remarkably warm December. The average temperature across the region was almost 5°F warmer than the previous warmest December, according to records that begin in 1895.

According to the U.S. Drought Monitor, drought conditions degraded considerably across most of the Southern Region during winter 2021-2022.

Louisiana went from 36% in drought to 100% in drought and from no severe or extreme drought to 90% severe and 33% extreme. Additionally, the NOAA's Climate Prediction Center calls for enhanced chances of above-normal temperatures and enhanced chances of drier than normal conditions in the coming months. Consistent with the seasonal outlook favoring warm and dry conditions, the drought across the Southern Region is expected to persist or even worsen.

"There is only one way out of a drought, and that is with rain," said LDAF Commissioner Mike Strain DVM. "Here in Louisiana, there will always be some rain, but it will take more than a downpour or two to break us out of the cycle we find ourselves in currently."

Some of the driest areas in the state are also some of our largest production areas of agriculture, with major rice, soybean, and sugarcane fields all falling under the level 3 drought. With less rain to replenish aquifers, producers may begin to see a strain on water supply as well as an intrusion of saltwater. In an effort to be proactive, individual farmers or ranchers can begin a planning process to identify water-dependent functions of a farm or community, prioritize water-dependent functions, and determine steps to adapt those functions if water supplies begin to drop.

Additionally, farmers and ranchers planning for 2022 may want to consider some conservation practices that can help make their land and livestock more resilient to drought in the future. USDA's Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) recently issued information on ways they can help farmers and ranchers conserve water and build resilience to drought through conservation practices that improve irrigation efficiency, boost soil health, and manage grazing lands.

Irrigation Efficiency

Saving water on the farm can help during drought and can offset rising water costs; reduce expenditures for energy, chemicals, and labor; and enhance revenues through higher crop yields and improved crop quality. Funded conservation practices include conversion to more efficient irrigation systems, such as micro-irrigation or subsurface drip irrigation, installation of irrigation pipeline, irrigation water management, structures for water control, and flow meters. Tools like drip irrigation, which provides water precisely where and when it's needed, can achieve greater precision with flow meters and soil moisture sensors.

Soil Health

In addition, soil health conservation practices, such as reduced- or no-till, cover crops, mulching, and residue management, can help to make the soil and the plants grown or animals raised healthier. Healthier soil can absorb and retain more water for longer periods of time, making farms or ranches more resilient to drought. Using soil health practices, producers can conserve water by increasing the soil's water-holding capacity and using conservation tillage to keep the ground covered, reducing water loss through transpiration and evaporation.

And soil health practices increase organic matter, and each pound of organic matter can hold up to 20 pounds of water. Every 1% increase in organic matter results in as much as 25,000 gallons of soil water per acre. Each 1% increase in organic matter can also provide up to 30 pounds of more available nitrogen per acre. That means less money and time spent on inputs like water and fertilizer, which make operations more profitable.

Rotational/Prescribed Grazing, Water Sources for Livestock

Drought also impacts grazing lands, and NRCS works with farmers and ranchers to increase the resilience of their livestock operations. Ranchers can adapt to dry conditions in two main ways: increasing the availability and suitability of forage and ensuring that cattle have an adequate and reliable source of water. For forage, rotational or prescribed grazing (rotating cattle among pastures) can relieve pressure on stressed vegetation and ensure a more consistent supply of forage for animals. NRCS conservationists can also work with producers to plant more drought-tolerant forage species, plants best suited to local soils and conditions. For reliable sources of water, NRCS can help with installing watering facilities, water wells, or water pipeline for livestock. Having available forage and water for livestock can make a big difference in difficult drought conditions.

We can't change the weather, but we can be ready for it. One way is by implementing voluntary conservation practices that help alleviate the drought's effects.

For more information on drought recovery assistance from USDA and NRCS, visit farmers.gov/protection-recovery/drought#recovery. For more information on conservation practices to make your operation more resilient to drought in future years, go to www.nrcs.usda.gov.

Vietnam Wood Species Inbound Mission to Maryland, Georgia & Louisiana
*Maryland, Georgia & Louisiana
August 15-20, 2022*

Vietnam has a thriving wood processing sector that is heavily import-dependent. In 2019, U.S. exports of forest products to Vietnam reached $350 million, and Vietnam was the third largest market in the world for U.S. hardwood exports. Despite the current downturn due to COVID-19, Vietnam’s wood processing industry in expected to continue to grow in the medium and long-term and offer more opportunities for U.S. logs and timber due to the shortage of domestic materials. U.S. softwood is still new to the Vietnam market, but its market share is also expected to grow as Vietnam expands its use of softwood in furniture and construction. SUSTA will be bringing key buyers from Vietnam to our Southern states to meet with our southern exporters specializing in Yellow Pine Logs.

- Participation Fee:
- $8.33 (One-on-one meetings/facility visits in Maryland on August 15th – August 16th)
 - $8.33 (One-on-one meetings/facility visit in Georgia on August 17th – August 18th)
 - $8.33 (One-on-one meetings/facility visit in Louisiana on August 19th – August 20th)
