Strain: Hire only licensed horticulture professionals

File Photo

Louisiana Department of Agriculture and Forestry (LDAF) Commissioner Mike Strain, D.V.M., is reminding residents to hire only licensed professional arborists, landscape horticulturists and landscape irrigation contractors when having work done on their property.

All arborists, landscape horticulturists and landscape irrigation contractors must be licensed by the LDAF. By law, no person shall receive fees, advertise or solicit business in a regulated profession or occupation unless this person holds the appropriate license or permit, has a regular employee who holds the appropriate license or permit, or is employed by a person who holds the appropriate license or permit.

"Not everyone who claims to be a 'yard specialist' is actually a landscaping professional which requires training," Strain said. "These professionals are not only trained to properly execute the work, arborists and landscape irrigation contractors are required to attend continuing education training to renew their licenses."

When is a license required? LDAF Horticulture and Quarantine Programs Director Tina Peltier said routine grass mowing and edging don't require licensed individuals. "However, work such as plant bed preparation, bedding plant installation, lawn irrigation system installation, tree trimming and fertilizer application all must be conducted by licensed individuals."

Strain said before allowing any work to begin, verify the individual is licensed through our website at www.LDAF.la.gov or our LDAF Business Search app.

For those without online access, call the Horticulture and Quarantine Programs Division at 225-952-8100 to verify horticulture licenses.

LOUISIANA AGRICULTURE & FORESTRY TODAY

USDA designates two La. parishes as natural disaster areas

Agricultural producers in St. Tammany and Washington parishes who lost property caused by straight-line wind, flooding and a tropical storm that occurred April 9 through June 25, 2021, may be eligible for U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) Farm Service Agency (FSA) physical loss loans, said Louisiana Agriculture and Forestry Commissioner Mike Strain,

D.V.M. Physical-loss loans can help producers repair or replace damaged or destroyed physical property essential to the success of the agricultural operation, including livestock losses. Examples of property commonly affected include essential farm buildings, fixtures to real estate, equipment, livestock, perennial crops, fruit and nut bearing trees and harvested or stored crops and hay. “In Louisiana, weather is always challenging for agricultural producers and this year is no different,” Strain said. “Disaster assistance is essential to help producers recover and remain in business.” The deadline to apply for physical losses is March 16, 2022. Strain said producers may contact their local FSA office for further information on eligibility requirements and application procedures. Additional information is also available online at <https://www.fsa.usda.gov/state-offices/Louisiana/news-releases/2021/la-availability-of-low-interest-physical-loss-loans-for-producers-affected-by-natural-disasters>.

Fresh produce farmers, packers, distribution centers

The Louisiana Department of Agriculture and Forestry is able to provide fresh produce farmers, packing facilities and distribution centers in Louisiana with basic Good Agriculture Practice/Good Handling Practices (GAP/GHP) audits, as well as, GAPs Harmonized audits (with or without the Global addendum).

GAP audits are a voluntary for hire service that certifies a producer's efforts to provide safe, quality product free from contamination to the consumer.

For more information or to schedule an audit, contact Audrey Carrier at the Hammond office at 985-543-4024 or email acarrier@ldaf.state.la.us.

USDA confirms African swine fever in the Dominican Republic

Baton Rouge, La. (July 29, 2021) – Louisiana Department of Agriculture & Forestry (LDAF) Commissioner Mike Strain, D.V.M., is reminding all Louisiana hog farmers to practice rigorous biosecurity protocols following the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) announcement issued Wednesday, July 28, confirming cases of African swine fever (ASF) in the Dominican Republic (DR). African swine fever is a highly contagious and deadly viral disease affecting both domestic and feral (wild) pigs in all age groups.

The announcement further stated, the cases were confirmed as part of a cooperative surveillance program between the U.S. and the DR. The U.S. remains free of ASF – an animal disease affecting only pigs with no human health implications – and imports no pork, animal feed or other pork production-related products from the Dominican Republic.

Strain, a veterinarian by profession, said most of Louisiana's domestic hogs are generally small, backyard operations. "The African swine fever cases in the Dominican Republic should serve as a reminder to all livestock producers that biosecurity protocols are their first line of defense in protecting their animals from disease."

USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) has numerous safeguards in place to prevent ASF from entering the U.S. Pork and pork products from the Dominican Republic are currently prohibited entry as a result of existing classical swine fever restrictions. Additionally, the Department of Homeland Security's Customs and Border Protection (CBP) is increasing inspections of flights from the Dominican Republic to ensure travelers do not bring prohibited products to the U.S. CBP will also be ensuring that garbage from these airplanes are properly disposed of to prevent the transmission of ASF.

"Biosecurity and disease surveillance programs are essential in protecting our nation's food supply," Strain said. "For instance, the 2018 outbreak of African swine fever in China had devastating impacts on their pork industry, the largest producer and consumer of pork on the planet. The outbreak decreased the global pork supply and resulting in higher pork and commodity prices."

Louisiana's swine industry contributed $1.43 million to the state's economy, according to the LSU AgCenter's 2018 Agricultural Summary.

Get it Growing: What to do in the garden in August

By Heather Kirk-Ballard
LSU AgCenter

The heat is turned up and the rain is unrelenting. What can you do this month in the garden? As we look forward to cooler fall weather there are things to do to prepare for the fall and still time to tackle summertime gardening tasks.

Prune your blooming roses back about one-third of their height in late August to early September to encourage new blooms for October and November. Remove all the dead canes and diseased wood.

If the plants are showing signs of black spot or mildew, be sure to rinse your pruners in 10% bleach solution then in water before moving onto healthy shrubs to prevent the spreading of any disease. Fertilize with an all-purpose fertilizer or one designed specifically for roses after pruning at recommended rates to encourage new growth and to improve flowering for the fall bloom.

This is also a good time to spray roses for blackspot, powdery mildew and other fungal diseases. You may choose to use triforine, thiophanate methyl, or copper oleate. Follow manufacturer's directions carefully. Rake up and remove all fallen leaves to prevent further infection of rose bushes and dispose of them in the trash.

Ornamental bedding plants have either grown out of control with the warm and wet weather or they have just tucked themselves out in all the heat. Trim or stake tall plants and deadhead spent flowers on annuals and perennials to give them a boost.

Consider another application of fertilizer for your lawn. Your third and final application of fertilizer can be made in August for Bermudagrass, St. Augustine grass and Zoysia grass. Centipede it is not necessary.

Chinch bugs, sod webworms and armyworms may be causing damage in your lawn. All three feed on grass stems and stolons. Look for brown patches in the lawn and signs of caterpillars or adult moths. If the problem has gotten out of control, consider insecticide applications of bifenthrin, carbaryl or permethrin. Follow the label instructions carefully.

Another thing you can do this month is dig up and divide perennial flowering plants such as daylilies and irises. In general, most prolific perennial plants such as lilies, irises and ornamental grasses need to be divided over time. When you notice plants beginning to decline or they cease to make flowers, it is typically an indication of overcrowding.

Plants that are overcrowded begin to decline in vigor and health due to increased competition for sunlight, nutrients and water. This will be most noticeable when plants start to look a bit ragged.

Signs usually manifest when clumps begin to decline and die out in the center of the plant, and they may stop flower production all together. When you begin to notice this decline, it's time to start dividing the plants to help decrease competition for nutrients and water.

Divide plants first thing in the morning or late evening when the temperatures are not too hot. When dividing plants, use a spade or shovel to carefully lift the clump of plants from out of the ground and avoid damaging roots as much as possible. When you have a good clump out of the ground, use a garden knife or spade to cut clumps into smaller pieces for moving.

Transplant to a new container or in another portion of the lawn or share them with friends or family. Be sure to water plants as well to avoid added stress. Continue to watch plants over the next few weeks to ensure adequate water as they establish new root systems.

Dividing and replanting during the late summer and early fall allows plants to establish a good root system before going into dormancy during cooler winter months.

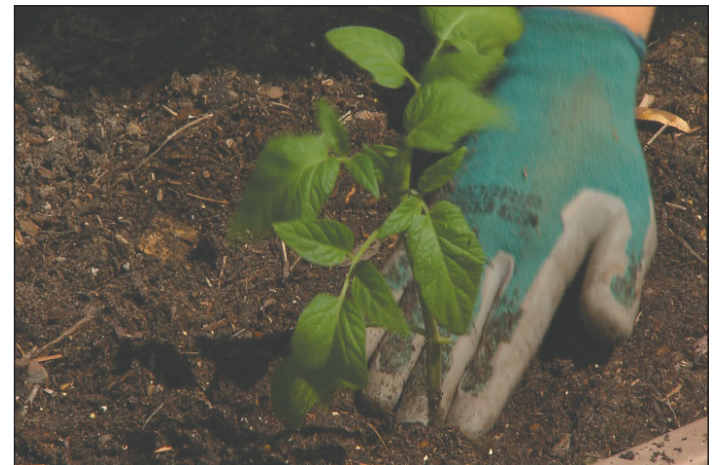

Overall, perennials are best divided in the very early spring when they are just breaking dormancy or in the late summer after they have stopped flowering and begin looking a bit ragged. Avoid disturbing perennials when they are forming flower buds or are in bloom.

It's time to start planning your fall vegetable garden. Transplant fall tomato plants into your garden by mid-August for North Louisiana and the first week of September for South Louisiana. Some suggested cultivars for fall production are Florida 91, Phoenix, Sun Leaper, Solar Set, Sunmaster and Talladega. Fall seeds of broccoli, Brussel sprouts, cabbage, cauliflower, collard greens, cucumber, kale, lettuces, lima beans, Swiss chard, Southern peas, shallots, squashes and turnips can be planted later this month.

Perform maintenance in the summer vegetable garden. Remove spent summer tomatoes, peppers, eggplants, etc. that have tucked out. If your spring-planted eggplant, pepper plants and okra still look good let them continue to grow. They often produce another fall crop.
