Sasanquas brighten fall, winter landscapes

By Allen Owings
LSU AgCenter horticulturist

Sasanquas are one of our most popular flowering shrubs for late fall through early winter. They go by the scientific name of Camellia sasanqua.

Sasanquas are typically smaller-growing than plants we normally call camellias. They also have finer-textured foliage and bloom from mid-October through December or January. Sasanquas are very abundant these days due to the popularity of the variety ShiShi Gashira.

ShiShi Gashira is a smaller-growing, "dwarf" type plant. With rose pink flowers, it is actually another species of camellia, technically Camellia hiemalis. This variety, though, is typically lumped in to the sasanqua group. Other popular sasanquas are Bonanza, Yuletide, Stephanie Golden, Leslie Ann and Sparkling Burgundy.

A new variety, similar to ShiShi Gashira and with red flowers, is called Hot Flash (or Reverend Ida). You may be able to find this variety in a few garden centers.

Try also the new Southern Living Plant camellias. These include October Magic Inspiration, October Magic Orchid, October Magic Snow, Pink Stella, Jessica's Ruffles, Alabama Beauty, Bella Rouge and Diana.

Success with sasanquas depends on the planting site. Part sun to part shade is best, especially for younger plants. Choose a location that receives four hours to six hours of direct sun in the morning and shade in the afternoon. Or select a spot that receives light, dappled shade throughout the day.

When planted in full sun, sasanquas are subject to more stressful conditions. The foliage sometimes has a yellowish look, and flower buds may not open properly.

Plants in full sun also may be more susceptible to injury in freezing weather.

Good drainage also is essential. Do not plant camellias in areas that are poorly drained or where water settles after a rain. If an area has poor drainage, plant camellias on mounds or in raised beds.

All camellia plants are acid-loving, and an alkaline soil (pH above 7) can limit their ability to obtain some nutrients, especially iron. When you are preparing an area for planting, incorporate a soil acidifier to help make the soil more acid if your soil is alkaline. Three readily available materials for this are ground sulfur, iron sulfate (copperas) and aluminum sulfate. Copperas should generally be used because it is faster-acting than sulfur and provides additional iron.

Fertilize in spring as new growth begins – about March or early April. Use a fertilizer labeled for acid-loving plants or any general-purpose fertilizer according to the manufacturer's label directions.

Sasanquas are part of our Southern gardening heritage. A few well-placed specimens will brighten your landscape during these late fall and early winter days when few other shrubs are blooming.

Farmer of the Year nominations due Jan. 4

Nominations for the 2013 Louisiana Farmer of the Year award are being accepted now through Jan. 4. Application forms can be obtained at any LSU AgCenter parish extension office or online at www.LSUAgCenter.com/farmeroftheyear.

“While much of the country suffered through drought, our farmers were able to help fill in the gap by producing exceptional crops including a record yield for soybeans,” said LSU AgCenter Chancellor Bill Richardson. “Louisiana agriculture continues to play an essential economic role in the state and local economies.”

Other sponsors of the competition include the Louisiana Radio Network, Louisiana Farm Bureau

Federation and the Louisiana Department of Agriculture and Forestry. Producers from all areas of agriculture are eligible to enter.

Three finalists will be recognized at White Oak Plantation in Baton Rouge on Feb. 28, 2013, with the winner receiving a cash award and other prizes.

This is the 16th year of presenting the Louisiana Farmer of the Year award. Last year’s winner was Hank Rabb, a cotton and corn farmer from St. Joseph in Tensas Parish.

Have you sold cattle on the farm?

The beef check-off law goes into effect every time cattle are sold. This includes purebred sales and private treaty sales on the farm. The law requires that you must collect the national, plus the 50 cents state check-off money during your sale. The 50 cents state check-off is now a Mandatory Collection as a result of Act 298 passed in the 1995 Louisiana legislature, but producers may request a refund of this amount only, by written request to the Louisiana Beef Industry Council.

The seller is also responsible under the law. The seller may collect and remit the $1.50 per head in a private treaty transaction. This is the best way to handle purebred sales. To avoid a late payment charge, money must be remitted by the 15th of the month following the sale. Penalties of up to $5,000 per transaction applies to violators. All sale transactions are subject to audit to insure compliance with the check-off law.

Please use the form below when submitting the collected check-off funds.

 1/3 cup all-purpose flour
 1/3 cup water
 1 ½ tsp. salt
 ½ tsp. Cajun seasoning

Rinse chicken breast with cold water and pat dry. Cut into 1x1x12" pieces. Fill a deep fryer with vegetable oil, about 1/3 full. Heat to medium heat, 335 degrees. Place beaten egg and water in a small bowl and mix well. Add flour and salt, stirring until a smooth batter is formed. Dip chicken pieces in batter and drain off any excess. Add battered chicken, a few pieces at a time, to the hot oil. Fry about four minutes or until golden brown and done. Drain on paper towels. Put chicken pieces into deep bowl and add Pourciau's Pecan Praline Sauce. Stir to coat chicken pieces with sauce. Serve hot.

Lafourche Parish celebrated the grand opening of the Lafourche Central Market Saturday, Dec. 15. The event was originally scheduled for Labor Day weekend but officials were forced to postpone the opening due to Hurricane Isaac.

"Lafourche Central Market is a great place to meet on a Saturday morning to enjoy the bounty of our region whether it's our fruits and vegetables, our music or our art," Lafourche Parish President Charlotte Randolph said. "No matter if you live up the bayou or down the bayou, all can enjoy this wonderful community event."

The grand opening began with a ribbon cutting ceremony by Agriculture and Forestry Commissioner

Mike Strain, D.V.M. and Lafourche Parish President Charlotte Randolph.

"Louisiana is blessed with an abundance of high quality fruits and vegetables, milk, eggs and fresh seafood," Strain said. "With the opening of the new Lafourche Central Market, consumers will now have better access to the finest locally produced products this area has to offer."

The event featured music by JAG & Friends, a local Cajun band, Santa Clause and a coloring contest.
